Nixon demands release of 120 more U.S. POWs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House today accused Hanoi of violating a prisoner agreement with the United States and called on North Vietnam to release immediately at least 120 more American POWs.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said President Nixon had instructed Secretary of State William P. Rogers to demand from North Vietnamese officials a clarification of the delay in the second round of scheduled prisoner releases "on a most urgent basis."

The White House spokesman said Hanoi is in violation of Article 1V of the Vietnam peace agreement which, he said, declared that prisoners should be returned "at a rate no slower than the rate of withdrawal of American and allied forces."

Ziegler said the United States already has withdrawn more than half the troops it had in South Vietnam at the time the agreement was signed. While emphasizing that he was using unofficial figures, Ziegler said that Hanoi would have to release 120 more Americans at once in order to keep pace with the withdrawal.

Ziegler said Rogers, attending a Vietnam conference in Paris, was told by Nixon to take up the matter with North Vietnamese officials "as a matter of the highest priority before other business is conducted."

Ziegler said the instructions to Rogers were issued following a lengthy meeting this morning between Nixon and presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, who negotiated the cease-fire agreement.

Ziegler said terms of the peace agreement make it clear that the pace of prisoner releases cannot be linked to any factors other than the withdrawal rate.

He said the United States "will not accept linking" the prisoner question with any other matter involved in the agreement.

Asked if Rogers also had been instructed to suggest retaliatory measures might be taken if the second batch of U.S. POWs is not set free quickly, Ziegler said: "I'm not in a postion to predict or speculate on that matter."

Asked if U.S. troop withdrawals would be slowed because of Hanoi's foot-dragging on the prisoner releases, Ziegler indicated they would not be, saying: "The United States is scrupuously following the agreement" and expects Hanoi to do likewise.

To date, 155 servicemen and eight civilians have been released, Ziegler said.

Regardless of prevailing economic conditions or level of unemployment, the number of women on the payrolls continue to rise.

In the last 20 years, the number of women in the labor force increased from less than 20 million to over 30 million, according to a study by The Conference Board. Today, nearly 45 per cent of all adult women are earning paychecks, compared to less than 35 per cent during the early 1950s. Mothers are working for wages in increased numbers also. Of women with children under six years old, 30 per cent are in the labor force -- a sharp increase from 20 years ago when the proportion was only 12 per cent.

Their reasons? If it's not just the money, perhaps they want to put their college training to work or maybe they are seeking liberation from their homemaker duties.

A 'GOOD' ABOUT TECHNOLOGY

Mother Nature doesn't always know best, neither is man always wrong, in this matter of ecology.

Modern industrial society is often accused of raping the earth in its consumption of such nonrenewal resources as coal and oil. Yet the accumulation of these resources actually demonstrates a failure of nature to recycle them back into the energy and living matter from which they were formed.

So argues scientist/ humanist Rene Dubos. Man, he says, is completing the cycle of burning these materials, thus releasing carbon and minerals for new plant growth.

The trouble, of course, is that man has begun recycling fossil fuels too rapidly, overlaoding the system.

But these days, any kind word for technology qualifies as man- bited dog news.

LIB? CREDIT THE TYPEWRITER

When the history of women's liberation is written, a few words ought to be said about the lowly typewriter.

Not only did this invention, less than 100 years old, transform commerce and industry by freeing personnel from the drudgery and illegibility of handwriting, it freed great numbers of women from their traditional house - confined roles by bringing them into the work force for the first time.

That was the beginning of a lot of other changes.

A good case can also be made that the entry of women into the world of business transformed offices from dank, spittoon-littered places into the clean, carpeted, colorful and well-lit offices we know today.

The above thoughts are prompted by announcement of the latest innovation in typewriter technology, SCM's Coronomatic cartridge- loading machine. Because the typewriter ribbon is completely contained in the cartridge, manicured fingers need never again get ink-smeared when changing ribbons.

How much more can business be transformed? Well, the cartridges come in blue, silver, gold and green, as well as the traditional black and red, and the company predicts this could spell the end of the monochromatic look of business correspondence.

Ms. Jones, take a letter in glowing gold.

This is 12 more than met in 1972 (numerous legislatures meet only every other year). Only Kentucky is not scheduled for a regular session in 1973.

Almost every subject imaginable from A to Z will be covered by the thousands of bills that will cascade into legislative hoppers this year, says CCH, with, if the past is a guide, emphasis on R and T - revenue and taxes.

Charles Schwab had a mill manager whose men weren't producing their quota of work.

"How is it," Schwab asked, "that a man as capable as you can't make this mill turn out what it should?"

"I don't know," the man replied, "I've coaxed the men; I've pushed them; I've sworn and cussed; I've threatened them with damnation and being fired. But nothing works. They just won't produce."

It happeded to be the end of the day, just before the night shift came on.

"Give me a piece of chalk." Schwab said, Then, turning to the nearest man: "How many heats did your shift make today?"

"Six."

Without another word Schwab chalked a big figure six on the floor, and walked away.

When the night shift came in, they saw the "6" and asked what it meant. "The big boss was in here today," the day men said. "He asked us how many heats we made, and we told him six. He chalked it down on the floor."

The next morning Schwab walked through the mill again. The night shift had rubbed out "6," and replaced it with a big "7."

When the day shift reported for work the next morning, they saw a big "7" chalked on the floor. So the night shift thought they were better than the day shift, did they? Well, they would show the night shift a thing or two. They pitched in with enthusiasm and when they quit that night, they left behind them an enormous, swaggering "10."

Environmentalism
Taking Shape

It takes a lot more than sheer zeal and a rash of restrictive laws to protect land, water and air resources. Those concerned with the long view of environmentalism must move to fill the vacuum of zealotry--and they are beginning to do so.

The Edison Electric Institute, the principal association of the nation's investor-owned electric power companies, announced "an important financial breadthrough in its drive to raise funds to support the electric utility industry's greatly expanded research and development program." Forty-eight EEI member companies pledged support of the expanded program amounting to $36.6 million, or 48.7 percent of the $75.1 million to be raised for 1973. The head of the Institute's research financing campaign, Mr. Shearon Harris, termed the response of the companies "extremely gratifying". Since a number of electric power companies' commitments to expanded research must be approved by regulatory authorities, it is also important that the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners has urged its member regulatory agencies to extend their "cooperation and support" to the industry-wide research program.

In the years ahead, contributions of the electric companies to expanded research and development will grow to impressive proportions. By 1974, they will total some $118.9 million annually in support of the newly created Electric Power Research Insitutue. Thus, the shape of envoronmentalism as a permanent institution--and its price tag--is beginning to take form.

Energy Ships

Energy authorities are now virtually inanimous in the belief that a substantial portion of U. S. energy needs in future years must be met by importing large amounts of oil and natural gas. The impending energy crisis and the mounting need to import oil and gas have shown how vital an up to daye American merchant marine is to the well-being of the U. S.

Mr. James J. Reynolds, president of the American Institute of Merchant Shipping, in commenting on shipping's critical role in meeting the energy crisis, observes that petrolium import needs by 1985 will reach a projected 14 million barrels daily. The movement of this vast quantity of petroleum will require a tanker fleet of 155 million deadweight tons, compared with today's entire world fleet of less that 200 million DWT. He also notes that by 1985 there will be a gap of some 35 billion cubic feet per day between the supply and demand for natural gas. The liquefied natural gas vessels of the merchant fleet will become a mojor ". . . servant of our nation's needs," he adds. Moreover, once the Alaska pipeline is in operation, tankers must furnish the final transportation link with civilization. In the words of Mr. Reynolds, "Based on shipment of two million barrels per day from Valdez in the early 1980's, it is forecast that 41 U. S. -flag tankers ranging from 30,000 to 250,000 tons in size will be required to bring petroleum to our lower 48 states......"

So far as our energy- based civilization is concerned, the United States has entered a new ball game-- a game is which American maritime capability, measured in terms of the performance of the merchant marine, will play a decisive role.

THE WORD INVASION

"We dream, pray, make love in Spanish, but fix our cars in English." This is how a Colombian professor described the invasion of Latin America by English words.

Most Americanisms come from technology and sports. In the latter category, beisbol (baseball) has introduced such terms as el shortstop, un strike and el homeplate. From Mexico to Argentina, fans cheer for el tim (the team) and hope for un jonron (home run— j in Spanish is pronounced like h in English). Golf has introduced words like el score, los links, and el country club.

Others come from U.S. technology. Venezuelans refer to los sparkplugs and el steering wheel. Chileans order automobiles with los power brakes, and everyone complains there is no place to parquear (park).

Then there are the food words: lonchi (lunch), otemil (oatmeal), esteque (steak), jatqueque (hotcake), quiande (candy), cornfleques (you guessed it), fanfurria (frankfurter) or el hotdog, ribsteque (ribsteak), chopas (chops), dresin (dressing), and el hamburger.

The most intermingled of all the Latin American vocabularies is the Spanish spoken in Puerto Rico. Because of the many Puerto Ricans who have lived on the U.S. mainland, one finds them using such words as fayaman (fireman), lanlor (landlord), corna (street corner), and cuora (quarter of a dollar).

For centures English was by far the biggest borrower of words from other languages. Now it is paying its debt with interest.

TIME SETTLES CONTROVERSY

While the controversy over nuclear electric power plants continues, time has marched inexorably onward. Suddenly, the oft- expressed fear of nuclear power, on the grounds that it is an experiment holding unknown dangers, is beginning to sound archaic. The world's first full- scale atomic power plant has been in operation at Shippingport, Pennsylvania, for 15 years -- and the community of Shippingport takes nuclear energy very much for granted.

According to an AP dispatch, "The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers says it has had no complaints of thermal or radiation pollution, and residents generally agree that the plant's pollution record has been spotless." A Pittsburgh-based environmental group has labeled the plant's pollution control devices impressive. A spokesman for the gourp says, "We haven't had any reports of any kind of pollution problem. I've been through the plant myself and it looks like they're doing a good job." The success of the Shippingport plant, added the AP dispatch, "... has attracted two more power plants, one to be nuclear and one fossil- fueled." These plants are now under construction and will have more than six times the capacity of the Shippingport power plant when completed.

In another few years, it is a safe bet that the nuclear critics and their dire predictions will become fitting companions in history to those long- gone souls who warned of the dangers of the steam locomotives, the auto and other innovative milestones of civilization. Time has a way of settling all controversies. Currently, it is working on the side of nuclear power plants.

YOUNG PEOPLE LEARN TO APPRECIATE HOW INDUSTRY OPERATES

To encourage more young people to understand the world of business, the C.I.T. Financial Corporation for the third consecutive year asked a number of high school newspaper editors to be its guests for a day at the company's annual stockholders' meeting. The young editors were invited to enter an essay contest with essays about their reactions. For many of the youngsters it was their first contact with corporate officials and stockholders.

A trio of professional writers evaluated the essays. Winner was Miss Isabel Kathleen McGinty, 17 - year old honors student at Mother Cabrini High School in New York City. She received five shares of C.I.T. common stock for her winning entry, "Impressions of an Initial Stock Experience."

When the company was first listed on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange, 100 shares were awarded to high school valedictorians throughout California, and recently the Picker Corporation, a C.I.T. subsidiary, awarded stock to the highest- ranking science students in the greater Cleveland area. The finance firm also has training and scholarship award progrms for youths.

CUSTOMER'S CHOICE

Promotion and advertising are the basic mediums through which merchants in a free market call attention to the services and products that they have to offer. Trading stamps are one of the oldest forms of promotion and have been subjected to an endless array of studied and investigations preporting to show their economic value or lack of it. A feature story in the Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, Times, by Mr. Don Fisher, provides a perfect illustration of the flexibility of the free choice marketing system. Supermarkets in the area that had abandoned the use of trading stamps as a form of promotion have brought them back because of customer demand.

One merchant commented, "Trading stamps seem to be an accepted part of life. A lot of people came in and complained after we dropped them." Another merchant observed that demand for stamps couldn't be turned down. However, Mr. Fisher comments, while many merchants that had dropped stamps are again offering them to customers, other merchants have declined to do so. They have turned to other promotion, such as discounts in an endeavor to satisify customers. Whether the stores in Oklahoma City or elsewhere in the country do or do not give trading stamps is beside the point. They point is they are seeking to give consumers the service that competition requires.

In a free market, studies of the economic value of promotional practices are superfluous. As long as consumers have free choice, they can decide for themselves the economic worth of a merchant's business practices. In Oklahoma City, consumers have reaffirmed their desire for trading stamps through the free choice process. What further need be said?

NEW YORK (AP) — What kind of a girl should a man marry?

That isn't too hard to figure out. A man should marry the girl he's in love with and can get along with, and who loves him and can get along with him.

What kind of girl should a man avoid marrying? Any other kind.

But he should be at special pains to avoid marrying the kind of girl who —

Spends more on her hair than he does on his entire wardrobe.

Thinks being "a mere housewife" — as she calls it — is somehow degrading.

Feels a husband should wash his own socks.

Takes pride in the fact she doesn't cook well and has no desire to learn.

Can't keep a home looking reasonably tidy as well as lived-in.

Can't keep from keeping a home unreasonably tidy.

Expects to dole out his lunch money every day instead of once a week.

Is so wasteful her husband will have to throw out two sacks of garbage every night.

Doesn't think any comic strips are ever funny.

Vows that the first thing she'll do when she marries a man is reform him.

Keeps her fingernails twice the normal length and broods for days if she breaks one.

Never thinks it is fun to get wet in a sudden summer rain.

Believes her relatives invariably show more character than his do.

Would rather play with an old doll than a new baby.

Would rather start a new war with her mother-in-law than keep an uneasy truce.

Serves either too many leftovers or never serves any at all.

Thinks all men are really "just little boys — and bad little boys at that."

Spends most of her time proving she can play bridge better than any other woman in town.

Is secretly ashamed that the diamond in her engagement ring isn't as big as she'd like it to be.

Expects her husband to come straight home on paydays with his uncashed paycheck in his mouth — but wouldn't think of ever greeting him at the door with is house slippers in her mouth.

Thinks an article like this is too ridiculous for words, because, "after all, let's be serious — what man ever knew anything about women in the first place, now really?"

Coming up next, Girls — Some Kinds of Boys Not to Marry.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Tuning in on Children's Minds

WASHINGTON — In the constant campaign to separate the customer from his cash, small children are now used as guinea pigs to find out how to whet their appetites and, through the children, to influence the buying habits of their parents.

Missions are spent on motivational research to stimulate youngsters, so they will pester their parents into buying advertised brands. A typical research group, describing its sophisticated operations, boasts:

"Our new offices have four large focus rooms, a complete laboratory, rooms with one-way mirrors for observing children, video tape and recording facilities, test kitchen, commercial viewing rooms, etc."

One outfit even uses moisture detectors, placed in contact with the children's hands, to measure their subconscious responses to advertising.

Explains another research group, which claims to have special insight on how to aim advertising at children: "Remember if it is a multichild family with a child in preschool, there is an awesomely greater influence on the mother than there would be in a family where there is a six - year - old just starting school."

Consumer advocate Robert Choate is asking the Federal Trade Commission to investigate the child - manipulation techniques as an unfair business practice. He also wants the Federal Communications Commission to investigate the possibility that the commercials, in their very preparation, violate the fairness doctrine, since few parents understand the sophistication of the ads aimed at their children.

"The average child," Choate tells us, "sees about 25,000 commercials a year and so spends four hours a week watching commercials, but this four hours is much more sophisticated and intrusive upon a child's mind than we had ever guessed.

INCIDENT IN HAVANA

The bizarre story can now be told of what happened in Havana after Pat Gray, the bullet-headed boss of the FBI, ordered his agents to shoot out the tires of the skyjacked Southern Airways jetliner last November in an attempt to keep it from taking off from Orlando, Fla.

The details were gathered by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., as part of his research on skyjacking legislation.

As he pieced together the story, FBI sharpshooters punctured all the tires except on the nose wheel. This enraged the sky pirates who shot copilot Billy Harloyd Johnson and held a grenade at the head of chief pilot William R. Haas.

Despite the flat tires, Haas was forced to attempt a takeoff. An "act of God," he told Murphy, provided an airpocket that lifted the crippled craft into the air just as the runway ran out.

In Havana, Cuba's mercurial dictator Fidel Castro heard the news and hurried down to the airport to direct the landing from the control tower. He ringed the area with combat troops, 27 ambulances and seven firetrucks. Thousands of Cubans also gathered to watch the drama unfold.

Haas miraculously brought the huge jet to a shuddering halt at the end of a long slide. "I thought we would wind up in a fire ball at the end of the runway," he said.

The skyjackers, meanwhile, piled out of the plane and raced in opposite directions for the nearbywoods. They left behind $2 million in ransom, which they had handed out to the passengers with abandon.

The air pirates didn't get far before they were collared by Fidel's finest. At first, they threatened the Cuban soldiers with hand grenades. Castro himself was close enough to the action to have been killed or injured. They were subdued, however, to the accompaniment of cheering Cubans.

Then the jubilant Castro grabbed the chief pilot, hugged him and lifted him into the air crying ''Magnifico, magnifico!" Haas was driven to a Havana hotel in Castro's private jeep by Army aides. Asked what would happen to the skyjackers, an aide said: "We don't need bandits in this country. These two will be put into a 4-by-4 prison cell for life."

ATLANTA TRAGEDY

A tragic Atlanta apartments - for - the elderly fire, which cost the lives of 10 residents last fall, could have been avoided by the installation of a simple smoke detection device costing about $50 per apartment.

This will be charged at hearings, which Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., has scheduled this week into faulty nursing home construction. Housing experts, including ordained minister Richard L. Fullerton of nearby Smyrna, Ga., will testify that FHA financing has made the funding of old people's homes so complicated and expensive that cuts are made in construction, sometimes with tragic results.

Witnesses will blame the Baptist Towers fire in Atlanta partly on FHA officials who winked at their own regulations and permitted construction without modern fire protection equipment.

It will be alleged, for example, that the door knobs in Baptist Towers were small metal knobs difficult for the elderly to turn and not the levers recommended for nursing homes. The fire alarm was also so inadequate, it will be testified, that one resident who barely escaped with her life told rescuers she thought the warning siren was an alarm clock.

The FHA manual on property standards requires that buildings such as Baptist Towers "of eight or more stories having more than 15 living units per floor shall be equipped with an automatic fire detection system." The requirement, however, was waived for the Atlanta construction. Explained officials later: "We didn't have enough money for everything."

The devices, which could have saved the lives of the Atlanta victims, would have cost the contractors a total of $15,000, it will be charged.

Regardless of prevailing economic conditions or level of unemployment, the number of women on the payrolls continue to rise.

In the last 20 years, the number of women in the labor force increased from less than 20 million to over 30 million, according to a study by The Conference Board. Today, nearly 45 per cent of all adult women are earning paychecks, compared to less than 35 per cent during the early 1950s. Mothers are working for wages in increased numbers also. Of women with children under six years old, 30 per cent are in the labor force -- a sharp increase from 20 years ago when the proportion was only 12 per cent.

Their reasons? If it's not just the money, perhaps they want to put their college training to work or maybe they are seeking liberation from their homemaker duties.

A 'GOOD' ABOUT TECHNOLOGY

Mother Nature doesn't always know best, neither is man always wrong, in this matter of ecology.

Modern industrial society is often accused of raping the earth in its consumption of such nonrenewal resources as coal and oil. Yet the accumulation of these resources actually demonstrates a failure of nature to recycle them back into the energy and living matter from which they were formed.

So argues scientist/ humanist Rene Dubos. Man, he says, is completing the cycle of burning these materials, thus releasing carbon and minerals for new plant growth.

The trouble, of course, is that man has begun recycling fossil fuels too rapidly, overlaoding the system.

But these days, any kind word for technology qualifies as man- bited dog news.

LIB? CREDIT THE TYPEWRITER

When the history of women's liberation is written, a few words ought to be said about the lowly typewriter.

Not only did this invention, less than 100 years old, transform commerce and industry by freeing personnel from the drudgery and illegibility of handwriting, it freed great numbers of women from their traditional house - confined roles by bringing them into the work force for the first time.

That was the beginning of a lot of other changes.

A good case can also be made that the entry of women into the world of business transformed offices from dank, spittoon-littered places into the clean, carpeted, colorful and well-lit offices we know today.

The above thoughts are prompted by announcement of the latest innovation in typewriter technology, SCM's Coronomatic cartridge- loading machine. Because the typewriter ribbon is completely contained in the cartridge, manicured fingers need never again get ink-smeared when changing ribbons.

How much more can business be transformed? Well, the cartridges come in blue, silver, gold and green, as well as the traditional black and red, and the company predicts this could spell the end of the monochromatic look of business correspondence.

Ms. Jones, take a letter in glowing gold.

Charles Schwab had a mill manager whose men weren't producing their quota of work.

"How is it," Schwab asked, "that a man as capable as you can't make this mill turn out what it should?"

"I don't know," the man replied, "I've coaxed the men; I've pushed them; I've sworn and cussed; I've threatened them with damnation and being fired. But nothing works. They just won't produce."

It happeded to be the end of the day, just before the night shift came on.

"Give me a piece of chalk." Schwab said, Then, turning to the nearest man: "How many heats did your shift make today?"

"Six."

Without another word Schwab chalked a big figure six on the floor, and walked away.

When the night shift came in, they saw the "6" and asked what it meant. "The big boss was in here today," the day men said. "He asked us how many heats we made, and we told him six. He chalked it down on the floor."

The next morning Schwab walked through the mill again. The night shift had rubbed out "6," and replaced it with a big "7."

When the day shift reported for work the next morning, they saw a big "7" chalked on the floor. So the night shift thought they were better than the day shift, did they? Suddenly, the oft- expressed fear of nuclear power, on the grounds that it is an experiment holding unknown dangers, is beginning to sound archaic. The world's first full- scale atomic power plant has been in operation at Shippingport, Pennsylvania, for 15 years -- and the community of Shippingport takes nuclear energy very much for granted.

According to an AP dispatch, "The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers says it has had no complaints of thermal or radiation pollution, and residents generally agree that the plant's pollution record has been spotless." A Pittsburgh-based environmental group has labeled the plant's pollution control devices impressive. A spokesman for the gourp says, "We haven't had any reports of any kind of pollution problem. I've been through the plant myself and it looks like they're doing a good job." The success of the Shippingport plant, added the AP dispatch, "... has attracted two more power plants, one to be nuclear and one fossil- fueled." These plants are now under construction and will have more than six times the capacity of the Shippingport power plant when completed.

In another few years, it is a safe bet that the nuclear critics and their dire predictions will become fitting companions in history to those long- gone souls who warned of the dangers of the steam locomotives, the auto and other innovative milestones of civilization. Time has a way of settling all controversies. Currently, it is working on the side of nuclear power plants.

YOUNG PEOPLE LEARN TO APPRECIATE HOW INDUSTRY OPERATES

To encourage more young people to understand the world of business, the C.I.T. Financial Corporation for the third consecutive year asked a number of high school newspaper editors to be its guests for a day at the company's annual stockholders' meeting. The young editors were invited to enter an essay contest with essays about their reactions. For many of the youngsters it was their first contact with corporate officials and stockholders.

A trio of professional writers evaluated the essays. Winner was Miss Isabel Kathleen McGinty, 17 - year old honors student at Mother Cabrini High School in New York City. She received five shares of C.I.T. common stock for her winning entry, "Impressions of an Initial Stock Experience."

When the company was first listed on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange, 100 shares were awarded to high school valedictorians throughout California, and recently the Picker Corporation, a C.I.T. subsidiary, awarded stock to the highest- ranking science students in the greater Cleveland area. The finance firm also has training and scholarship award progrms for youths.

CUSTOMER'S CHOICE

Promotion and advertising are the basic mediums through which merchants in a free market call attention to the services and products that they have to offer. Trading stamps are one of the oldest forms of promotion and have been subjected to an endless array of studied and investigations preporting to show their economic value or lack of it. A feature story in the Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, Times, by Mr. Don Fisher, provides a perfect illustration of the flexibility of the free choice marketing system. Supermarkets in the area that had abandoned the use of trading stamps as a form of promotion have brought them back because of customer demand.

One merchant commented, "Trading stamps seem to be an accepted part of life. A lot of people came in and complained after we dropped them." Another merchant observed that demand for stamps couldn't be turned down. However, Mr. Fisher comments, while many merchants that had dropped stamps are again offering them to customers, other merchants have declined to do so. They have turned to other promotion, such as discounts in an endeavor to satisify customers. Whether the stores in Oklahoma City or elsewhere in the country do or do not give trading stamps is beside the point. They point is they are seeking to give consumers the service that competition requires.

In a free market, studies of the economic value of promotional practices are superfluous. As long as consumers have free choice, they can decide for themselves the economic worth of a merchant's business practices. In Oklahoma City, consumers have reaffirmed their desire for trading stamps through the free choice process. What further need be said?

NEW YORK (AP) — What kind of a girl should a man marry?

That isn't too hard to figure out. A man should marry the girl he's in love with and can get along with, and who loves him and can get along with him.

What kind of girl should a man avoid marrying? Any other kind.

But he should be at special pains to avoid marrying the kind of girl who —

Spends more on her hair than he does on his entire wardrobe.

Thinks being "a mere housewife" — as she calls it — is somehow degrading.

Feels a husband should wash his own socks.

Takes pride in the fact she doesn't cook well and has no desire to learn.

Can't keep a home looking reasonably tidy as well as lived-in.

Can't keep from keeping a home unreasonably tidy.

Expects to dole out his lunch money every day instead of once a week.

Is so wasteful her husband will have to throw out two sacks of garbage every night.

Doesn't think any comic strips are ever funny.

Vows that the first thing she'll do when she marries a man is reform him.

Keeps her fingernails twice the normal length and broods for days if she breaks one.

Never thinks it is fun to get wet in a sudden summer rain.

Believes her relatives invariably show more character than his do.

Would rather play with an old doll than a new baby.

Would rather start a new war with her mother-in-law than keep an uneasy truce.

Serves either too many leftovers or never serves any at all.

Thinks all men are really "just little boys — and bad little boys at that."

Spends most of her time proving she can play bridge better than any other woman in town.

Is secretly ashamed that the diamond in her engagement ring isn't as big as she'd like it to be.

Expects her husband to come straight home on paydays with his uncashed paycheck in his mouth — but wouldn't think of ever greeting him at the door with is house slippers in her mouth.

Thinks an article like this is too ridiculous for words, because, "after all, let's be serious — what man ever knew anything about women in the first place, now really?"

Coming up next, Girls — Some Kinds of Boys Not to Marry.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Tuning in on Children's Minds

WASHINGTON — In the constant campaign to separate the customer from his cash, small children are now used as guinea pigs to find out how to whet their appetites and, through the children, to influence the buying habits of their parents.

Missions are spent on motivational research to stimulate youngsters, so they will pester their parents into buying advertised brands. A typical research group, describing its sophisticated operations, boasts:

"Our new offices have four large focus rooms, a complete laboratory, rooms with one-way mirrors for observing children, video tape and recording facilities, test kitchen, commercial viewing rooms, etc."

One outfit even uses moisture detectors, placed in contact with the children's hands, to measure their subconscious responses to advertising.

Explains another research group, which claims to have special insight on how to aim advertising at children: "Remember if it is a multichild family with a child in preschool, there is an awesomely greater influence on the mother than there would be in a family where there is a six - year - old just starting school."

Consumer advocate Robert Choate is asking the Federal Trade Commission to investigate the child - manipulation techniques as an unfair business practice. He also wants the Federal Communications Commission to investigate the possibility that the commercials, in their very preparation, violate the fairness doctrine, since few parents understand the sophistication of the ads aimed at their children.

"The average child," Choate tells us, "sees about 25,000 commercials a year and so spends four hours a week watching commercials, but this four hours is much more sophisticated and intrusive upon a child's mind than we had ever guessed.

INCIDENT IN HAVANA

The bizarre story can now be told of what happened in Havana after Pat Gray, the bullet-headed boss of the FBI, ordered his agents to shoot out the tires of the skyjacked Southern Airways jetliner last November in an attempt to keep it from taking off from Orlando, Fla.

The details were gathered by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., as part of his research on skyjacking legislation.

As he pieced together the story, FBI sharpshooters punctured all the tires except on the nose wheel. This enraged the sky pirates who shot copilot Billy Harloyd Johnson and held a grenade at the head of chief pilot William R. Haas.

Despite the flat tires, Haas was forced to attempt a takeoff. An "act of God," he told Murphy, provided an airpocket that lifted the crippled craft into the air just as the runway ran out.

In Havana, Cuba's mercurial dictator Fidel Castro heard the news and hurried down to the airport to direct the landing from the control tower. He ringed the area with combat troops, 27 ambulances and seven firetrucks. Thousands of Cubans also gathered to watch the drama unfold.

Haas miraculously brought the huge jet to a shuddering halt at the end of a long slide. "I thought we would wind up in a fire ball at the end of the runway," he said.

The skyjackers, meanwhile, piled out of the plane and raced in opposite directions for the nearbywoods. They left behind $2 million in ransom, which they had handed out to the passengers with abandon.

The air pirates didn't get far before they were collared by Fidel's finest. At first, they threatened the Cuban soldiers with hand grenades. Castro himself was close enough to the action to have been killed or injured. They were subdued, however, to the accompaniment of cheering Cubans.

Then the jubilant Castro grabbed the chief pilot, hugged him and lifted him into the air crying "Magnifico, magnifico!" Haas was driven to a Havana hotel in Castro's private jeep by Army aides. Asked what would happen to the skyjackers, an aide said: "We don't need bandits in this country. These two will be put into a 4-by-4 prison cell for life."

ATLANTA TRAGEDY

A tragic Atlanta apartments - for - the elderly fire, which cost the lives of 10 residents last fall, could have been avoided by the installation of a simple smoke detection device costing about $50 per apartment.

This will be charged at hearings, which Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., has scheduled this week into faulty nursing home construction. Housing experts, including ordained minister Richard L. Fullerton of nearby Smyrna, Ga., will testify that FHA financing has made the funding of old people's homes so complicated and expensive that cuts are made in construction, sometimes with tragic results.

Witnesses will blame the Baptist Towers fire in Atlanta partly on FHA officials who winked at their own regulations and permitted construction without modern fire protection equipment.

It will be alleged, for example, that the door knobs in Baptist Towers were small metal knobs difficult for the elderly to turn and not the levers recommended for nursing homes. The fire alarm was also so inadequate, it will be testified, that one resident who barely escaped with her life told rescuers she thought the warning siren was an alarm clock.

The FHA manual on property standards requires that buildings such as Baptist Towers "of eight or more stories having more than 15 living units per floor shall be equipped with an automatic fire detection system." The requirement, however, was waived for the Atlanta construction. Explained officials later: "We didn't have enough money for everything."

The devices, which could have saved the lives of the Atlanta victims, would have cost the contractors a total of $15,000, it will be charged.

Legislature asked for emergency funds for St. Louis buses

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Committees in the Missouri House and Senate have been asked for an emergency appropriation to keep the buses rolling this spring in St. Louis and for additional tax money to keep them rolling forever throughout the state.

Representatives of the financially troubled Bi-State Transit Authority in St. Louis asked the Senate Appropriations Committee Monday for an emergency appropriation of $215,000.

The City of St. Louis and the 76 St. Louis county communities served by Bi-State have been asked to come up with the rest of the $903,000 in operations money needed by BiState.

They also spoke in favor of a half-cent sales tax for transportation that would be levied on a local option basis.

Morton Bearman, a Missouri commissioner for Bi-State since 1965, told the Senate committee that mass transit systems cannot operate on operating revenues alone.

He said the Illinois Legislature also is considering emergency financial help for the two-state transit system.

Several committee members told Bearman he should put pressure on the 76 municipalities served by Bi-State in St. Louis county and try to get subsidies in the form of federal revenue sharing money going to those cities. Bearman said Bi-State had commitments of help from a half dozen communities.

Rep. Raymond Quarles, D-St. Louis, said the buses "will stop rolling" if the emergency funds are not forthcoming, and said House members' main objection was that no Bi-State representatives appeared before the House Appropriations Committee.

Quarles said his own mathematics told him that it would cost $7 million to pay off unemployment and welfare benefits if the 1,600 employes of BiState Transit were put out of work.

Last year the legislature appropriated $1.2 million to keep the Bi-State buses running, and several senators pointed out that Bi-State representatives said they would not be back again asking for money.

"With rising labor costs, buses can no longer operate out of the fare box," said James B. Meanor, Jr., of the Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis.

"Not only capital investment for improvements, but operating costs, need subsidy," he said. "Whereas in 1961 only 21 transit systems in the country received public aid, currently more than 80 do so now."

He said about 200,000 riders a day use the buses in St. Louis.

A House committee also heard appeals for aid to transit systems.

The house local government committee was urged to approve bills that would allow a half-cent sales tax levied for the Kansas City Transit System to continue and to allow other cities to levy such a tax.

The bills are sponsored by Rep. James G. Baker, D-Kansas City. He said operation of the Kansas City Area Transit Authority has been "a success story" since the sales tax revenue became available in 1971, but he said the need for more money continues.

One of Baker's bill provides that elected officials of cities of more than 500 populaton can enact a sales tax for transit needs.

When asked if this should be subject to a public vote, Baker said he favored having the authority rest with city councils, but said perhaps the citizens could be asked later whether the tax should be continued.

Officials of the Kansas City ATA said average daily ridership is up by 10,000 and fares have been lowered as a result of the sales tax.

Howard Breen, ATA chairman, said the money from the sales tax better qualifies the ATA for federal aid because officials can say "our community is underwriting our system."

Charles Valier, legislative aide to Gov. Christopher S. Bond, said the Bond administration supports the bills as a way of helping finance the state's public transit systems, which he said are operated in Kansas City, St. Louis, Springfield, Columbia and Jefferson City.

In state run lottery

Proceeds could reach $13 million

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The House Constitutional Amendments Committee was told Monday night lottery proceeds could help retarded children. Opponents said it would corrupt the citizenry.

The committee also was told a resolution to deny bail would keep accused rapists off the street. But opponents said it would deprive citizens of the right to bail by presuming them guilty before trial.

Rep. Earl Schlef, D-Dellwood, sponsored the resolution to authorize a state lottery and to allow lotteries and games of chance to be run for religious, educational or charitable purposes.

He estimated annual proceeds from the state lottery at $13 million and said he money could be used to support mental health, and technical and vocational education programs.

It drew criticism as a "promotional scheme" and "corrupting force" from Cmr. Horne of St. Louis, executive director of the Christian Civic Foundation. "The only way the state gains is when somebody loses," he said.

"It will be the poor who are drawn with the idea of getting rich quick," he added.

Dr. Hugh Wamble, a Kansas City minister and head of the Missouri Baptist Christian Life Commission, said the lottery proposal "would make religion and education odious in the eyes of the people."

He said legalized gambling and organized crime usually can be found together.

Rep. Gladys Marriott, D-Kansas City, urged the committee to approve her resolution to deny bail to anyone charged with a felony while out on bail under a previous charge. She said the courts were too permissive.

Asked what happens to persons denied bail and then found innocent of the first charge, Rep. Marriott replied: "I assume they would be freed."

Rep. John A. Sharp, R-Kansas City, a committee member, said such a Constitutional Amendment could keep locked up for months a person "who might be innocent of both charges."

He said it is contrary to the American belief that someone is innocent until proven guilty.

Mrs. Marriott said she introduced the resolution partly because of rapes that occurred in the Kansas City area. She said she had daughters 20 and 23 and "maybe I take a mother's point of view."

In other committee action:

The Senate Criminal Justice Committee approved a bill that would establish a state division within the Department of Social Services to deal with problems of juvenile delinquency. Sen. John D. Schneider, D-St. Louis, said the new agency would be able to coordinate services for problem children and set standards for juvenile courts.

The committee also approved a bill that would require coroners to report the death and circumstances of any driver of pedestrian killed in a motor vehicle accident if death occurred within four hours of the accident. The bill would require tests for signs of alcohol and drugs in the blood. The information could be used only for statistics. The identity of the deceased would not be revealed.

The committee heard testimony on two bills sponsored by Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis, to authorize the state to compensate victims of crime.

What's the law?

The case of the social worker

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

With large sums of money being paid to female welfare recipients, the head of a welfare department smelled a hoax upon the part of many of them. Consequently, he mustered together his forces and ordered a countywide raid on their homes for early one Sunday morning. His expectation was to catch a netful of unauthorized males in their homes. The only problem he encountered was created by Mr. Tuna, a social worker, who doggedly refused to participate in the raid.

"You can't do it," he insisted. "It's unconstitutional. A man's home is his castle and you can't just bust in on him."

"If you don't come along," retorted the head of the welfare department, "I'll fire you as fast as you can say I won't go."

Whereupon, Mr. Tuna recited the forbidden words and the head of the welfare department charged him with insubordination and discharged him.

Undaunted, Mr. Tuna demanded his reinstatement in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the canning of Mr. Tuna?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a social worker cannot be fired for refusing to participate in an unconstitutional raid, provided he has information that makes him believe the raid is unconstitutional and, when ultimately conducted, it is in fact unconstitutional. In this case, concluded the judge, the blanket raid on homes of unsuspecting welfare recipients was not according to Hoyle.

Proceeds could reach $13 million

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The House Constitutional Amendments Committee was told Monday night lottery proceeds could help retarded children. Opponents said it would corrupt the citizenry.

The committee also was told a resolution to deny bail would keep accused rapists off the street. But opponents said it would deprive citizens of the right to bail by presuming them guilty before trial.

Rep. Earl Schlef, D-Dellwood, sponsored the resolution to authorize a state lottery and to allow lotteries and games of chance to be run for religious, educational or charitable purposes.

He estimated annual proceeds from the state lottery at $13 million and said he money could be used to support mental health, and technical and vocational education programs.

It drew criticism as a "promotional scheme" and "corrupting force" from Cmr. Horne of St. Louis, executive director of the Christian Civic Foundation. "The only way the state gains is when somebody loses," he said.

"It will be the poor who are drawn with the idea of getting rich quick," he added.

Dr. Hugh Wamble, a Kansas City minister and head of the Missouri Baptist Christian Life Commission, said the lottery proposal "would make religion and education odious in the eyes of the people."

He said legalized gambling and organized crime usually can be found together.

Rep. Gladys Marriott, D-Kansas City, urged the committee to approve her resolution to deny bail to anyone charged with a felony while out on bail under a previous charge. She said the courts were too permissive.

Asked what happens to persons denied bail and then found innocent of the first charge, Rep. Marriott replied: "I assume they would be freed."

Rep. John A. Sharp, R-Kansas City, a committee member, said such a Constitutional Amendment could keep locked up for months a person "who might be innocent of both charges."

He said it is contrary to the American belief that someone is innocent until proven guilty.

Mrs. Marriott said she introduced the resolution partly because of rapes that occurred in the Kansas City area. She said she had daughters 20 and 23 and "maybe I take a mother's point of view."

In other committee action:

The Senate Criminal Justice Committee approved a bill that would establish a state division within the Department of Social Services to deal with problems of juvenile delinquency. Sen. John D. Schneider, D-St. Louis, said the new agency would be able to coordinate services for problem children and set standards for juvenile courts.

The committee also approved a bill that would require coroners to report the death and circumstances of any driver of pedestrian killed in a motor vehicle accident if death occurred within four hours of the accident. The bill would require tests for signs of alcohol and drugs in the blood. The information could be used only for statistics. The identity of the deceased would not be revealed.

The committee heard testimony on two bills sponsored by Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis, to authorize the state to compensate victims of crime.

Comedy cast complete

Casting for the Harlequin Players' performances on March 30-31 of John Patrick's comedy, "The Curious Savage," were completed and announced last week.

The action in the play revolves around Mrs. Savage and her three money-hungry stepchildren who will go to such lengths as to even have her committed to an insane asylum.

The parts of her miserly family will be played by David Ahlvin as Titus, Mark Ahlvin as Samuel and Melba Gilliland as Lily Belle.

The patients in the asylum will be played by Cathy Brown as Florence, Mike Marsh as Hannibal, Debi Cloud as Fairy May, Wayne Noe as Jeffery and Debbie White as Mrs. Paddy.

The staff of the asylum will be portrayed by Theresa Weathers as Miss Willie and Roy Sanderson as Doctor Emmett.

What's the law?

The case of the social worker

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

With large sums of money being paid to female welfare recipients, the head of a welfare department smelled a hoax upon the part of many of them. Consequently, he mustered together his forces and ordered a countywide raid on their homes for early one Sunday morning. His expectation was to catch a netful of unauthorized males in their homes. The only problem he encountered was created by Mr. Tuna, a social worker, who doggedly refused to participate in the raid.

"You can't do it," he insisted. "It's unconstitutional. A man's home is his castle and you can't just bust in on him."

"If you don't come along," retorted the head of the welfare department, "I'll fire you as fast as you can say I won't go."

Whereupon, Mr. Tuna recited the forbidden words and the head of the welfare department charged him with insubordination and discharged him.

Undaunted, Mr. Tuna demanded his reinstatement in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you uphold the canning of Mr. Tuna?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a social worker cannot be fired for refusing to participate in an unconstitutional raid, provided he has information that makes him believe the raid is unconstitutional and, when ultimately conducted, it is in fact unconstitutional. In this case, concluded the judge, the blanket raid on homes of unsuspecting welfare recipients was not according to Hoyle.

Quitting second job can ease amphetamine need

Dear Ann Landers: You told the guy who confessed he was hooked on pep pills to go to a doctor at once. That advice was O.K. but it wasn't strong enough. Very few doctors know what to do for an amphetamine addict. So please listen to someone who has traveled that road.

First: Tell your wife immediately. Keeping it from her is a big mistake. She knows something is wrong with you and it will be a relief if you level with her and ask for her help.

Second: Quit that extra job. It's what got you into trouble. The paycheck from that second job looked pretty good at the time, but now you know it wasn't worth it.

If you take this advice you will receive an additional reward which I am sure you are not expecting. Very few men realize that the time spent at home will mean a lot more to their wives and children than anything a second paycheck could buy. I promise you this is true. But then, you will see for yourself.--- Know That Road Well

Dear Know: Good advice-- and straight from the feedbox. Many doctors say they would rather try to get a patient off heroin than amphetamines. It's easier. Good luck to you.

Dear Ann Landers: I've written dozens of times but have always torn up the letters because I decided you couldn't help me. But this letter is going in the mail no matter what. My story will sound like a hokey soap opera but I swear by the Almighty that every word is true.

My husband and my daughter (stepdaughter to him) had an affair. I am so upset about it I can't see straight. There are times when I would like to kill them both although I know it was all her fault. The girl tempted him in ways he couldn't resist.

I don't ever want to see my daughter again, but I know when she comes to visit (she lives 300 miles from here) I must act like everything is lovely. She has a nice husband and three children. No one would guess in a million years what went on with those two.

Please tell me how a person can recover from such treachery. How could the two people closest to me have done such a thing? I need your help.--- Broken Spirit

Dear Spirit: I can't straighten out in a few paragraphs a problem that needs hours of ventilating. Don't try to bury it or it will explode later like a time bomb.

The thought to keep uppermost in your mind is that what happened between them was an impetuous, unplanned, moment of weakness. The affair probably had no meaning to either of them. They are no doubt both ashamed and trying to forget it. Avail yourself of some short- term therapy and get this talked out of your system.

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you won't throw this letter in the wastebasket because I really need an answer and I can't find it in any etiquette book. What is the proper way to eat an olive? Is it polite to pick it up with your fingers? What should I do with the pits? Thank you.--- Ill At Ease

Dear Ill: The best way to eat an olive is to pick it up and put it in your mouth. The pits go on your plate. What else could you possibly do with them? When in doubt always do the logical thing. Good manners is nothing more than good sense.

What's the story on pot, LSD, cocaine, uppers and downers, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

ARMED WOMEN

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP) — Maryland State Police are planning a special training course in small arms exclusively for women.

The proposal was recommended after 15 women invaded the Pikesville headquarters.

"They just marched into my office and asked when we could start teaching them how to shoot handguns," said Jack Marsh, director of information.

Window treatments explained

R. L. Cary of St. Louis, an interior designer, exhibited and explained the use of fabrics for a special program, "Treatment for Windows", Feb. 20 at Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian Church.

The program was sponsored by the University of Missouri Extension Division. Cary was assisted by another interior designer from the St. Louis area.

Mrs. Fredericka Plummer, area home economist, introduced Cary, Ed Van Weelden, Virginia E. Twitty, Jewel Grady and Rebbeca Nistendirk, speakers for the day.

Van Weelden, representative for a window shade manufacturer, showed ideas for being creative with shades and their uses. Mrs. Twitty, area home economicst, discussed and showed application of design principles to be used in window treatment.

Miss Grady and Mrs. Nistendirk, area clothing and textile specialists, reported on tests done by the University of Missouri staff members on characteristics of curtain and drapery fabric.

The area home economists were assisted by an area committee in planning and co- ordinating the program. Mrs. L. O. Whitworth Jr. of Sikeston served as chairman.

Approximately 70 homemakers from Mississippi, New Madrid, Scott and Stoddard counties participated in the program.

TAMING THE NILE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egyptians are learning it will take more than the Aswan High Dam to tame the Nile.

Because of the dam, the muscle of the mighty river flexes with new vigor, threatening to undermine 550 bridges built within the last 19 years as well as three diversion dams, old but still needed.

The dam has strained out the silt, washed down from Ethiopia and central Africa. Without this burden — 110 million tons a year — the river surges through the valley of the Nile with new force, chiseling out river banks more than ever.

Ten new but smaller dams, costing about $22 million each, are planned downstream to slow the water on its way toward the Mediterranean. Otherwise, engineers say, damage from erosion will be severe in 10 to 15 years.

Proffer - Powers

GULFPORT, Miss. — Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Proffer announce the engagement of their daughter Jana Kay to Daniel Garland Powers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Eugene Powers of Natchez.

The bride- elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. William A. McDonald of Gulfport and the late Larry F. Hatfield of Sikeston, Mo., and Mrs. Ralph L. Proffer and the late Ralph Proffer of Sikeston.

Miss Proffer is a graduate of Gulfport High School where she was feature editor of the annual and a member of the Cotillion Club. She attended University of Mississippi in Oxford and is a member of the Phi Mu social sorority. She was a Lady of the Realm of the Memphis Cotton Carnival Court of 1972.

Grandparents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Willis E. Black of Natchez and the late Mr. and Mrs. James Powers of Roanoke Rapids, N.C.

Powers is an honor graduate of Natchez Adams High School and received a bachelor of science degree in business administration and accounting from University of Mississippi. His college honors include "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," Omicron Delta Kappa, Beta Gamma Sigma, Beta Alpha Psi, Phi Eta Sigma, treasurer of the Interfraternity Council and chairman of the senate finance committee of the campus senate. He is a past president and treasurer of the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Presently, he is an accountant with Arthur Andersen Company of Houston, Tex.

The wedding is set for April 28 at 6:30 p.m. in First United Methodist Church of Gulfport. The Rev. R. Stewart Smith will officiate at the ceremony.

Dear Ann Landers: I've written dozens of times but have always torn up the letters because I decided you couldn't help me. But this letter is going in the mail no matter what. My story will sound like a hokey soap opera but I swear by the Almighty that every word is true.

My husband and my daughter (stepdaughter to him) had an affair. I am so upset about it I can't see straight. There are times when I would like to kill them both although I know it was all her fault. The girl tempted him in ways he couldn't resist.

I don't ever want to see my daughter again, but I know when she comes to visit (she lives 300 miles from here) I must act like everything is lovely. She has a nice husband and three children. No one would guess in a million years what went on with those two.

Please tell me how a person can recover from such treachery. How could the two people closest to me have done such a thing? I need your help.--- Broken Spirit

Dear Spirit: I can't straighten out in a few paragraphs a problem that needs hours of ventilating. Don't try to bury it or it will explode later like a time bomb.

The thought to keep uppermost in your mind is that what happened between them was an impetuous, unplanned, moment of weakness. The affair probably had no meaning to either of them. They are no doubt both ashamed and trying to forget it. Avail yourself of some short- term therapy and get this talked out of your system.

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you won't throw this letter in the wastebasket because I really need an answer and I can't find it in any etiquette book. What is the proper way to eat an olive? Is it polite to pick it up with your fingers? What should I do with the pits? Thank you.--- Ill At Ease

Dear Ill: The best way to eat an olive is to pick it up and put it in your mouth. The pits go on your plate. What else could you possibly do with them? When in doubt always do the logical thing. Good manners is nothing more than good sense.

What's the story on pot, LSD, cocaine, uppers and downers, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

ARMED WOMEN

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP) — Maryland State Police are planning a special training course in small arms exclusively for women.

The proposal was recommended after 15 women invaded the Pikesville headquarters.

"They just marched into my office and asked when we could start teaching them how to shoot handguns," said Jack Marsh, director of information.

Window treatments explained

R. L. Cary of St. Louis, an interior designer, exhibited and explained the use of fabrics for a special program, "Treatment for Windows", Feb. 20 at Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian Church.

The program was sponsored by the University of Missouri Extension Division. Cary was assisted by another interior designer from the St. Louis area.

Mrs. Fredericka Plummer, area home economist, introduced Cary, Ed Van Weelden, Virginia E. Twitty, Jewel Grady and Rebbeca Nistendirk, speakers for the day.

Van Weelden, representative for a window shade manufacturer, showed ideas for being creative with shades and their uses. Mrs. Twitty, area home economicst, discussed and showed application of design principles to be used in window treatment.

Miss Grady and Mrs. Nistendirk, area clothing and textile specialists, reported on tests done by the University of Missouri staff members on characteristics of curtain and drapery fabric.

The area home economists were assisted by an area committee in planning and co- ordinating the program. Mrs. L. O. Whitworth Jr. of Sikeston served as chairman.

Approximately 70 homemakers from Mississippi, New Madrid, Scott and Stoddard counties participated in the program.

TAMING THE NILE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egyptians are learning it will take more than the Aswan High Dam to tame the Nile.

Because of the dam, the muscle of the mighty river flexes with new vigor, threatening to undermine 550 bridges built within the last 19 years as well as three diversion dams, old but still needed.

The dam has strained out the silt, washed down from Ethiopia and central Africa. Without this burden — 110 million tons a year — the river surges through the valley of the Nile with new force, chiseling out river banks more than ever.

Ten new but smaller dams, costing about $22 million each, are planned downstream to slow the water on its way toward the Mediterranean. Otherwise, engineers say, damage from erosion will be severe in 10 to 15 years.

Grandparents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Willis E. Black of Natchez and the late Mr. and Mrs. James Powers of Roanoke Rapids, N.C.

Powers is an honor graduate of Natchez Adams High School and received a bachelor of science degree in business administration and accounting from University of Mississippi. Violations system found

PARIS (AP) — The United States and North Vietnam agreed today on a system for reconvening the international Vietnam conference to deal with any peace violations, but the system effectively gave each side a veto.

Conference sources said the agreement provides for reconvening the conference only if Washington and Hanoi concur, or if either of them has the backing of at least six other conference members.

The 12 governments represented at the conference are split evenly into Communist and non-Communist states. The need to assemble at least seven votes in favor of recalling the conference thus would prevent such a session taking place against the will of either side.

The Washington-Hanoi agreement was reached in private discussions and was submitted to a drafting committee.

The declaration was expected to be formally signed by the weekend.

Robert J. McCloskey, U.S. delegation spokesman at the 13-party conference on Vietnam, told newsmen some differences remain between the two sides, but the United States "hopes and expects" them to be resolved by Friday, scheduled closing date of the conference.

The approach to agreement contrasted with developments in Vietnam itself, where Hanoi and the Viet Cong suspended their release of American war prisoners.

None of the foreign ministers attending these talks raised this issue during the second plenary session.

However, the Communist and non-Communist foreign ministers split over a U.N. role in postwar Vietnam and over the competence of the meeting to deal with Laos and Cambodia.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko joined other Communist delegations in opposing American-backed proposals to give U.N. SecretaryGeneral Kurt Waldheim a role in safeguarding the Vietnam cease-fire. Without mentioning Waldheim directly, he said any effort to set up a new peacekeeping authority "can only introduce confusion."

Waldheim himself told the conference he did not want to intervene in the dispute over a U.N. role. But he repeated that the world organization was "ready to assume its responsibilities wherever and whenever it is asked to provide useful and realistic assistance."

Legal experts were drafting a declaration to give the peace agreement the moral backing of the conference participants.

American officials said the conference, which opened Monday, appeared to be approaching a consensus. Stressing their readiness for compromise, Western officials said the ministers may agree to endorse sections of the agreement and pledge their governments to its strict observance.

Meanwhile, the ministers were continuing policy statements made by each delegations. Six ministers, including Secretary of State William P. Rogers, The Viet Cong's Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh and Canada's Mitchell Sharp spoke Monday.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec DouglasHome and the foreign ministers of North and South Vietnam were among the six speakers scheduled today.

The speeches Monday disclosed wide East-West differences over how to enforce the cease-fire agreement signed on Jan. 27.

Despite the indications that both sides were eager to seek a compromise, Western conference officials said there would be some tough bargaining over the proposed declaration.

Food prices jump again

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times said today that wholesale prices of many food commodities increased sharply during the first full week following devaluation of the dollar.

In a Washington dispatch, the Times said Agriculture Department aides noted these increases between Feb. 15 and 23 following the devaluation announcement of Feb. 12:

—Broilers, a standby for consumers with limited budgets, rose 10 per cent.

—Pork bellies, from which bacon is cut, were up 8.5 per cent.

—Whole hogs climbed 4.4 per cent, cattle carcasses rose 2.3 per cent.

—Wheat rose 12.1 per cent, flour was up 6.5 per cent.

The Times said increased export demand was the apparent link between food prices and the 10 per cent devaluation of the dollar.

Lawrence Krause, a Brookings Institution economist interviewed by the Times, said the increases would probably show up in the wholesale price index for February and the outlook for consumers was for more "disappointing figures" ahead.

PROSTITUTION PINCH

BALTIMORE (AP) — A $200,000-a-year prostitution ring has been broken up by police who say it operated much like a mail order business.

No fault bill stalled

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Backers of the NoFault Automobile Insurance bill closest to consideration on the floor failed Monday night in an effort to get it out of committee.

By a 3-3 tie, a bill co-sponsored by Sen. Albert M. Spradling D-Cape Girardeau, and three other senators was held in committee.

No-Fault automobile insurance is an attempt to settle automobile accident claims for personal bodily injury without regard to who was at fault.

Sen. Truman E. Wilson, D-St. Joseph, chairman of the committee, said the failure of the bill resulted from an attempt by other senators "to get concessions" from the bill's sponsors.

Wilson who voted against the bill, said it might cause premium rates increases.

He said any no-fault bill coming out of the committee would have to "stabilize premiums" and "expedite claims service."

He has offered a committee substitute bill similar to a bill sponsored in the House by Rep. Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal.

Several other bills also are before the House Insurance Committee and a bill by freshman Sen. Ralph Uthlaut Jr., R-New Florence, is also being considered by the Senate committee.

Wilson said Spradling's bill, which is supported by the Missouri Bar Association, and is drawn up along their suggestions, does not contain a "threshold clause."

A "threshold" is an amount after which legal action can be brought for fault, but under which no attampt to determine fault is made.

Wilson said some threshold level is necessary on any nofault bill before he can support it.

Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, one of the bill's sponsors said he could not vote for any bill with a threshold level.

The Missouri Bar Association also opposes a threshold level.

Cason said thresholds could discriminate against rural claimants.

He said medical costs in urban areas could easily pass a $500 or $1000 threshold level, whereas in a rural area, where medical costs are lower they might not.

He said the urban claimant could then sue for pain and suffering, but the rural claimant could not because his costs did not pass the level.

Cason also said out-of-pocket medical costs could easily be inflated by a skillful lawyer or claimant to pass a threshold level.

Wilson said the committee will now consider Spradling and Uthlaut's bills and his own committee substitute in an attempt to arrive at a compromise.

In floor action Monday, the Senate gave tentative approval to a bill allowing St. Louis County to sell bonds to build a Sports Complex, over the objections of senators from St. Louis City. The St. Louis senators failed in trying to attach an amendment making it a joint city-county venture.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur, allows the appointment of a sports commission to conduct a feasibility study. Bonds could be sold with a 55 per cent voter approval.

The House debated a bill to allow the State Public Service Commission to control rural electric cooperatives. They voted to reconsider the bill March 19.

The House will hold morning and afternoon sessions the rest of this week because of a backlog of bills ready for floor action.

The Senate also gave tentative approval to bills that would:

—Give retired St. Louis policemen a 3 per cent cost-of-living increase instead of the present 1 per cent cost-of-living allowance.

—Provide for a second circuit judge in the 20th Circuit of Franklin, Gasconade and Osage counties.

—Repeal a law requiring Kansas City and St. Louis to pay the cost of appeals in municipal court cases where the defendant was acquitted.

—Give St. Louis policemen a pay raise from $9,022 to $9,464 a year. The chief's salary would go from $26,182 to $27,484.

Council approves Housing Authority board appointments

MALDEN — The City Council Monday nights approved three appointments by Mayor Sparrel Davis to the Housing Authority board.

Raymond Santie was appointed to a five - year term, Joe Mosley drew a three- year term and R. W. Beall was named for two years.

Bids for the city's insurance was turned over to the insurance committee to be opened at a meeting at 7 p.m. today in the presence of all bidders.

Clyde Morgan represented Delta Asphalt Co. of Dexter and presented a list of specifications for asphalt work. After reading the list, the councilmen informed Morgan that they would discuss a contract with him at sometime in the future.

Tearing out of sidewalks around the new apartments north of the grade school were discussed and city attorney Gordon Fritz told the council that, if the owner tears them out, the city will be held responsible. A motion was made to notify the owner that he is not to take out sidewalks until the weather warms up, or that he must replace as soon as possible.

The council asked Fritz to draw up an ordinance calling for an election on April 3. It is to be ready at the next council meeting.

The council granted a request from C. A. Story of Malden Cab Co. that he be allowed to move his taxi stand from 103 S. Madison St. to his business address on East Lacede Street.

The council went into executive session to discuss salary raises for city employes, but reported no action was taken.

Ashcroft calls for action so correct deficiencies to

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Auditor John Ashcroft today called on Gov. Christopher S. Bond to take immediate action to correct deficiencies in the bonding of certain state personnel.

In a letter to the governor, Ashcroft said former State Comptroller and Budget Director John C. Vaughn had advised all state agencies to cancel all surety bond coverages. Vaughn's memorandum, dated Feb. 2, 1970, started blanket bond coverage had been obtained, eliminating the need for individual coverages.

"A number of state agencies, apparently in compliance with the recommendations, (from Vaughn) canceled coverages for all employes," Ashcroft said.

Ashcroft said the "current public employes blanket bond does not cover all state employes."

Ashcroft noted that currently the personnel of the Division of Finance are not bonded.

The Division of Finance had canceled all surety bond coverage after receiving Vaughn's memorandum, Ashcroft said.

Ashcroft urged Bond to "identify other state employes who should be covered, and to consider ways to replace the present blanket bonding agreement with one that meets all state requirements."

Ashcroft said that the bonding policy now in effect is "wasteful of resources, as well as dangerous."

"Many clerks and maintenance employes are now bonded, regardless of their responsibilities, while often those in charge of handling large sums of state funds are not," he said.

Sewer operation rules issued

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Statewide regulations to govern operations of sewer utilities have been issued by the Missouri Public Service Commission, the PSC announced today.

The PSC proposed the new regulations in 1971. The order was adopted following conferences with the 43 sewer utilities in the state.

"This new order will standardize operating procedures for sewer utilities," said PSC Chairman James F. Mauze, "as well as provide common rules and regulations on which the consumers, the commission and the companies can rely."

The commission was given regulatory jurisdiction over sewer utilities in 1967 by the legislature. Since then, the PSC has approved utility regulations on an individual company basis pending issuance of the statewide standards.

Among the items covered by the new general order are the design, construction and operation of sewer systems, including inspection procedures.

It also sets criteria for filing of tariffs, keeping of records and the reporting of accidents or other emergencies to the PSC.

Saccharin produced tumors in test rats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says rats that were fed saccharin in carefully controlled government studies have developed suspicious bladder tumors.

But the agency adds that its scientists have not determined whether the tumors are cancerous, which would force a ban on the only artificial sweetener remaining on the market.

Cyclamates were banned in 1969 under the so-called Delaney Clause in the law prohibiting any food additive that causes cancer in man or animals.

Virgil O. Wodicka, director of FDA's Bureau of Foods, confirmed the preliminary saccharin study results in an interview Monday.

He said the FDA findings will be transmitted to the National Academy of Sciences, which is under contract to evaluate the sweetener's safety and its role in treating certain metabolic diseases.

Even if the bladder tumors are found to be malignant, Wodicka said, the cause may be traced to impurities in the saccharin or to "mechanical irritation" resulting from the high levels of the chemical fed to test animals.

"We're not going to take any action until we get a recommendation from the academy," Wodicka said.

Last year the FDA removed saccharin from the list of additives generally recognized as safe, and recommended that the average adult's daily intake be limited to one gram.

One gram is the equivalent of 60 small saccharin tablets, or seven 12-ounce bottles of the standard diet soft drink, the FDA said.

No fault bill stalled

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Backers of the NoFault Automobile Insurance bill closest to consideration on the floor failed Monday night in an effort to get it out of committee.

By a 3-3 tie, a bill co-sponsored by Sen. Albert M. Spradling D-Cape Girardeau, and three other senators was held in committee.

No-Fault automobile insurance is an attempt to settle automobile accident claims for personal bodily injury without regard to who was at fault.

Sen. Truman E. Wilson, D-St. Joseph, chairman of the committee, said the failure of the bill resulted from an attempt by other senators "to get concessions" from the bill's sponsors.

Wilson who voted against the bill, said it might cause premium rates increases.

He said any no-fault bill coming out of the committee would have to "stabilize premiums" and "expedite claims service."

He has offered a committee substitute bill similar to a bill sponsored in the House by Rep. Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal.

Several other bills also are before the House Insurance Committee and a bill by freshman Sen. Ralph Uthlaut Jr., R-New Florence, is also being considered by the Senate committee.

Wilson said Spradling's bill, which is supported by the Missouri Bar Association, and is drawn up along their suggestions, does not contain a "threshold clause."

A "threshold" is an amount after which legal action can be brought for fault, but under which no attampt to determine fault is made.

Wilson said some threshold level is necessary on any nofault bill before he can support it.

Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, one of the bill's sponsors said he could not vote for any bill with a threshold level.

The Missouri Bar Association also opposes a threshold level.

Cason said thresholds could discriminate against rural claimants.

He said medical costs in urban areas could easily pass a $500 or $1000 threshold level, whereas in a rural area, where medical costs are lower they might not.

He said the urban claimant could then sue for pain and suffering, but the rural claimant could not because his costs did not pass the level.

Cason also said out-of-pocket medical costs could easily be inflated by a skillful lawyer or claimant to pass a threshold level.

Wilson said the committee will now consider Spradling and Uthlaut's bills and his own committee substitute in an attempt to arrive at a compromise.

In floor action Monday, the Senate gave tentative approval to a bill allowing St. Louis County to sell bonds to build a Sports Complex, over the objections of senators from St. Louis City. The St. Louis senators failed in trying to attach an amendment making it a joint city-county venture.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur, allows the appointment of a sports commission to conduct a feasibility study. Bonds could be sold with a 55 per cent voter approval.

The House debated a bill to allow the State Public Service Commission to control rural electric cooperatives. They voted to reconsider the bill March 19.

The House will hold morning and afternoon sessions the rest of this week because of a backlog of bills ready for floor action.

The Senate also gave tentative approval to bills that would:

—Give retired St. Louis policemen a 3 per cent cost-of-living increase instead of the present 1 per cent cost-of-living allowance.

—Provide for a second circuit judge in the 20th Circuit of Franklin, Gasconade and Osage counties.

—Repeal a law requiring Kansas City and St. Louis to pay the cost of appeals in municipal court cases where the defendant was acquitted.

—Give St. Louis policemen a pay raise from $9,022 to $9,464 a year. The chief's salary would go from $26,182 to $27,484.

Council approves Housing Authority board appointments

MALDEN — The City Council Monday nights approved three appointments by Mayor Sparrel Davis to the Housing Authority board.

Raymond Santie was appointed to a five - year term, Joe Mosley drew a three- year term and R. W. Beall was named for two years.

Bids for the city's insurance was turned over to the insurance committee to be opened at a meeting at 7 p.m. today in the presence of all bidders.

Clyde Morgan represented Delta Asphalt Co. of Dexter and presented a list of specifications for asphalt work. After reading the list, the councilmen informed Morgan that they would discuss a contract with him at sometime in the future.

Tearing out of sidewalks around the new apartments north of the grade school were discussed and city attorney Gordon Fritz told the council that, if the owner tears them out, the city will be held responsible. A motion was made to notify the owner that he is not to take out sidewalks until the weather warms up, or that he must replace as soon as possible.

The council asked Fritz to draw up an ordinance calling for an election on April 3. It is to be ready at the next council meeting.

The council granted a request from C. A. Story of Malden Cab Co. that he be allowed to move his taxi stand from 103 S. Madison St. to his business address on East Lacede Street.

The council went into executive session to discuss salary raises for city employes, but reported no action was taken.

Ashcroft calls for action so correct deficiencies to

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Auditor John Ashcroft today called on Gov. Christopher S. Bond to take immediate action to correct deficiencies in the bonding of certain state personnel.

In a letter to the governor, Ashcroft said former State Comptroller and Budget Director John C. Vaughn had advised all state agencies to cancel all surety bond coverages. Vaughn's memorandum, dated Feb. 2, 1970, started blanket bond coverage had been obtained, eliminating the need for individual coverages.

"A number of state agencies, apparently in compliance with the recommendations, (from Vaughn) canceled coverages for all employes," Ashcroft said.

Ashcroft said the "current public employes blanket bond does not cover all state employes."

Ashcroft noted that currently the personnel of the Division of Finance are not bonded.

The Division of Finance had canceled all surety bond coverage after receiving Vaughn's memorandum, Ashcroft said.

Ashcroft urged Bond to "identify other state employes who should be covered, and to consider ways to replace the present blanket bonding agreement with one that meets all state requirements."

Ashcroft said that the bonding policy now in effect is "wasteful of resources, as well as dangerous."

"Many clerks and maintenance employes are now bonded, regardless of their responsibilities, while often those in charge of handling large sums of state funds are not," he said.

Sewer operation rules issued

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Statewide regulations to govern operations of sewer utilities have been issued by the Missouri Public Service Commission, the PSC announced today.

The PSC proposed the new regulations in 1971. The order was adopted following conferences with the 43 sewer utilities in the state.

"This new order will standardize operating procedures for sewer utilities," said PSC Chairman James F. Mauze, "as well as provide common rules and regulations on which the consumers, the commission and the companies can rely."

The commission was given regulatory jurisdiction over sewer utilities in 1967 by the legislature. Since then, the PSC has approved utility regulations on an individual company basis pending issuance of the statewide standards.

Among the items covered by the new general order are the design, construction and operation of sewer systems, including inspection procedures.

It also sets criteria for filing of tariffs, keeping of records and the reporting of accidents or other emergencies to the PSC.

Saccharin produced tumors in test rats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says rats that were fed saccharin in carefully controlled government studies have developed suspicious bladder tumors.

But the agency adds that its scientists have not determined whether the tumors are cancerous, which would force a ban on the only artificial sweetener remaining on the market.

Cyclamates were banned in 1969 under the so-called Delaney Clause in the law prohibiting any food additive that causes cancer in man or animals.

Virgil O. Wodicka, director of FDA's Bureau of Foods, confirmed the preliminary saccharin study results in an interview Monday.

He said the FDA findings will be transmitted to the National Academy of Sciences, which is under contract to evaluate the sweetener's safety and its role in treating certain metabolic diseases.

Even if the bladder tumors are found to be malignant, Wodicka said, the cause may be traced to impurities in the saccharin or to "mechanical irritation" resulting from the high levels of the chemical fed to test animals.

"We're not going to take any action until we get a recommendation from the academy," Wodicka said.

Last year the FDA removed saccharin from the list of additives generally recognized as safe, and recommended that the average adult's daily intake be limited to one gram.

One gram is the equivalent of 60 small saccharin tablets, or seven 12-ounce bottles of the standard diet soft drink, the FDA said.

Jackson scores again

Jeff Jackson (40) muscled in 25 points against the Lilbourn Panthers Monday night to keep the Kelly Hawks alive in the class M state basketball tournament.

Kelly passes test

POPLAR BLUFF— "...and we still haven't peaked yet." Those were the words of a jubilant Coach Nick Lampher after his Kelly Hawks had defeated a tough Lilbourn quintet, 61- 59, in first round action of state Class M play Monday night.

Kelly, who went into the game at 20- 8 for the season and the Richland regional title under their belt, were noticeably nervous in the opening moments of the game as Lilbourn jumped to a five point lead, 13- 8. The teams traded baskets until the end of the first frame and the Panthers still led by five, 17- 12, going into the second period.

In the second frame the Hawks began to loosen up and began to play the kind of basketball that had brought them so far. With Jeff Jackson leading the way, the scrappy Kelly quintet began to work on the five point Panther advantage. The big 6-foot- 3 pivotman began to hit the bucket for the Hawks after the Lilbourn defense shut off the outcourt shooting of Kelly. With Kelly waiting for the good shots and working their shuffle for easy layin baskets the Hawks were able to break the Panther defense. With 10 seconds remaining in the first half, Denny Shelby made both ends of a one and one free throw situation to knot the score at the half, 31- 31.

In the second half Lilbourn broke out of their man to man, which Coach Lampher called "the best we've faced all season", and went into a zone to try to stop Jackson. Kelly responded with several key baskets by Shelby and Randy Thompson to break Coach Larry Warren't strategy. Rich Urhan's 18 foot jumper with a little over a minute remaining in the third period put the Hawks out in front by four, 41- 37, the largest lead that they had enjoyed at that time. Lilbourn came back with two steals and two quick layup baskets to move back within one point, 43- 42, going into the final period.

Lilbourn opened the final frame as if they were ready for the trip to Cape Girardeau Wednesday night. The Panthers broke to a five point lead with only three minutes remaining in the contest. Then the Hawks went to work, on offense and defense. With Jackson hitting from the inside and Shelby and Thompson hitting from the outside, the Hawks began to make their move. Kelly also completely shut off the usually high scoring Panther machine in the final period, making the Panthers commit numerous floor mistakes and take poor shots from the field.

Urhan's two free throws with 54 seconds remaining put the Hawks ahead 60- 54. The Panthers came back with Grant Dambach hitting a free throw and Claude McFerren making a driving layup to come within three points, 60-57. Jackson hit a free throw with 13 seconds remaining to ice the victory for the Hawks and give the Kelly quintet a chance to advance to state quarterfinal play at Cape Girardeau Wednesday night.

Although the Lilbourn defense was very tough, Kelly's was just as sticky. The Hawks held the usually high scoring Frankie Robinson to a mere four points. Eddie McCraney led the Panthers with 14 points, most of them coming from inside.

The Hawks, who won the game from the foul line, hitting on 17 of 21 attempts, were led in scoring by Jackson who poured in 24 points. Shelby and Thompson added 14 and 13 points respectively for Kelly.

In the winner's locker room after the game, Coach Lampher happily stated, "This is a great group of boys, they never gave up. Even after we were down in the final quarter, they kept coming back."

Raiders lose playoff opener in college regional

MOBERLY — Coach Gene Bess' Three Rivers Community College Raiders lost the first game of the best two out of three series in the Region 16 District playoff here Monday night to Moberly, 93-69.

The Moberly defense was more than the Raiders could cope with as coach Bess' crew could put only two men in double figures with Wendall Copeland and Mark Baker hitting 13 and 12 respectively.

Moberly had little trouble with the Raiders defensive efforts as three men cracked the 20 point barrier.

Moberly raced through the TRCC defense for 47 points in the first half while holding the Raiders to a mere 35.

The second half was nearly a carbon copy of the first as Moberly continued to pour in the points and TRCC couldn't find the right offensive combination.

John Dixon hit 24, Bob Jackson 21, and Tom Hill scored 20 to lead Moberly to the win and put the pressure on the Raiders for th next game. TRCC must win Tuesday night to stay alive in the playoffs. If they lose they will have their season come to an end.

Moberly hit 39 shots from the field to 28 for the Raiders. The Raiders also lost in the free throw competition, 13-15.

Raiders lose playoff opener in college regional

MOBERLY — Coach Gene Bess' Three Rivers Community College Raiders lost the first game of the best two out of three series in the Region 16 District playoff here Monday night to Moberly, 93-69.

The Moberly defense was more than the Raiders could cope with as coach Bess' crew could put only two men in double figures with Wendall Copeland and Mark Baker hitting 13 and 12 respectively.

Moberly had little trouble with the Raiders defensive efforts as three men cracked the 20 point barrier.

Moberly raced through the TRCC defense for 47 points in the first half while holding the Raiders to a mere 35.

The second half was nearly a carbon copy of the first as Moberly continued to pour in the points and TRCC couldn't find the right offensive combination.

John Dixon hit 24, Bob Jackson 21, and Tom Hill scored 20 to lead Moberly to the win and put the pressure onthe Raiders for th next game. TRCC must win Tuesday night to stay alive in the playoffs. If they lose they will have their season come to an end.

Moberly hit 39 shots from the field to 28 for the Raiders. The Raiders also lost in the free throw competition, 13-15.

In this picture everybody has a gimmick . . . almost everybody. Try picking the one who doesn't go along. 1. Nope. He's Alfonso Cliggitt, divorce lawyer. Gimmick: far out dress to intimidate the opposition. Smokes cigarettes made of dried tundra. 2. Harold A. Baer, rare book expert. ("Books Old and Rare from Harry Baer.") Thinks rolling his own makes him look younger. A real dingbat. 3. If she's the Camel Filters smoker, the guy with the beard is Jean Harlow. 4. Gene Harlow. 5. Right! He's just himself. And he sees through all the gimmicks. That's why he smokes an honest, no-nonsense cigarette. Camel Filters. Easy and good tasting. Made from fine tobacco. 6. A. Boswell Farquar. Advance wins 30th

BLOOMFIELD — The Advance Hornets 'Big Orange Machine' has cranked up again, rolling over the Parma Pirates 75-58 in forst round action of the high school class S state basketball tournament Monday night.

Riding the host shooting hands of Terry Wills, Darrell Croy and John Rhodes, the Hornets breezed past what was expected to be their toughest opponent on the road toward a repeat as state champions. Wills popped in 35 points to lead the rout while Croy and Rhodes added 17 and 11 markers respectively for the high flying Hornets.

Coach Carroll Cookson's AHS cagers opened the contest with a full court press that rattled the young, inexperienced Pirates and racked up an 8-0 advantage before Parma cracked the scoring column with two minutes of the contest and the victory almost out of sight.

Parma closed to within one point during the second period after mastering the pressing tactics of the Hornets, but fell back again as the Hornets out-side shooting accuracy began to build an unsurmountable lead while Parma stayed in their zone defense. By midway in the third frame AHS had build up a 20 point advantage after holding only a five point, 34-29, advantage at half.

Advance's ball hawking defense and their rebounding stole the show and opened the door to the Hornets 30th victory of the season, giving them their second decision over the PHS cagers. Parma lost by only four points two months ago and were thought to have a good shot at upsetting the Hornets because of the addition of Dale Crews, a 6-foot-4 athlete, but by the time he entered the game the Hornets were well on their way to victory. He did help close the gap to one point during the second quarter but foul trouble forced the big fellow to slack up and when he did, the Hornets began to pull away.

"I felt the boys looked good," coach Cookson noted. "It was a real good game."

The Hornets press was devastating and coach Cookson singled that out as a big plus in his teams victory. "We used a combination defense -- pressed quite a bit, which really seemed to hurt Parma. It was our defensive team effort that made the difference," the Daily Standard's 1972 Coach of the Year noted.

But the Hornets blistering out- side shooting punch and their rebounding against the generally strong PHS rebounding corps couldn't be overlooked. All in all it was another 'Big Orange Machine' working toegther that moved the Hornets within three wins of a repeat as state champions.

Advance hit 31 field goals to 24 for the Pirates and the Hornets took the advantage from the free throw line 13-10.

Perkins and Gibson hit 14 apiece for the Pirates followed by Crews with 13. Wills took high game honors with 35. Darrell Crow, who hit 32 against Leadwood Saturday night, was held to 17.

Rolly Perkins and Steve Gibson scored 14 points each to pace Parma's offense which included 13 markers by Crews.

Advance continues its bid for a second straight state title Wednesday night at Hillsboro against Clopton.

Baseball war nears end

So the war, it seems, is finally over.

No, not that one.

The great conflict of national interest, mainly the one involving the national pasttime, ground to a halt Monday—although it won't be official until at least Wednesday.

That's when Marvin Miller, outspoken executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, meets with player representatives of the 24 teams to brief them on the agreement achieved with the club owners.

Miller and the owners' representative, John Gaherin, wouldn't disclose any details of the agreement—although plenty of them leaked out anyway. And it still isn't official. Both the owners and players must ratify it. That, however, appears to be merely a formality.

For even as the announcement of the settlement was being made, players were already flooding into spring training camps to begin getting in shape for the season that will open—on time this year—barely a month away.

The agreement is not only preventing another divisive and costly strike, it is hardly ruffling the spring training schedules. As of now, only four teams—the Boston Red Sox, Detroit Tigers, New York Mets and Minnesota Twins—have called off any preseason games at all. The only other casualty of any consequence was the cancellation by the Pittsburgh Pirates of their three-game exhibition series this weekend in Mexico.

Among the reported details of the new pact are:

—a minimum salary of $15,000 for major leaguers. In 1967, for a comparison, the minimum was $7,000.

—a maximum cut of 20 per cent of a player's salary after he has a poor year and a maximum decrease of 30 per cent over two years. The old terms permitted a one-year slash of 25 per cent and a two-year cut of 44 per cent.

—a month's pay for a player released in spring training, two month's pay if he's cut between the April 6 start of the season and May 15, and a full-season's pay if he's released after May 15. Previously, the player got nothing but a handshake if he was cut during spring training, one month's pay if he was cut any time after the start of the regular season.

Tom Seaver won't have to worry about such details. The pitching ace of the New York Mets, a six-time All-Star who posted a 21-12 record last year, signed his 1973 contract Monday for a reported $140,000.

Other signings included catcher Mike Ryan and pitcher Jim Nash of Philadelphia, outfielder Reggie Smith of Boston, pitcher Mel Stottlemyre and second baseman Horace Clarke of the New York Yankees and infielder Steve Garvey of Los Angeles.

Dietary habits vary

Fish are what they eat

MANKATO, Minn.—(NEA) —A fish, like an Army, travels on its stomach.

Despite an apparently enormous appetite, observes Virgil Ward, three-time world and national freshwater fishing champion, few fishermen ever find a fat fish because fish eat only what they need. Although fish are far from being gourmets, they do have definite food preferences, he insists. An understanding of these preferences, he adds, can help put a bigger catch in your creel.

Ward has determined that an adult largemouth bass, for example, will eat the equivalent of 4 to 5 per cent of its own weight in fish during an average day. A young northern pike will eat several times this amount, his study shows, and fish feeding on less nutritious food consume even more.

Predators — this includes most game fish—generally require several pounds of fish flesh to produce a one-pound weight gain. Plant feeders need 30 to 40 pounds of vegetation to produce a single pound gain.

The abundance of food also plays an important part in a fish's diet. For predators, the smaller fish and other living organisms on which they dine are scarce early in the spring season, then become abundant during the summer and scarce again late in the season. This, according to Ward, an adviser for Johnson Fishing Reels here, affects fishing success, especially in inland waters.

If reservoir fishing's your thing, Ward says, you're likely to catch more fish in an older reservoir. Here the balance between largemouth bass, for example, and the prey is such that the natural food intake of the bass is often at a low level, and he's more likely to take your offerings. In newer reservoirs, easily caught prey such as crayfish, frog tadpoles, young bullheads and green sunfish are plentiful and bass can maintain a high level of food intake.

Trout in small streams and sunfish in lakes and streams include a high percentage of insects in their diets. During rains, many insects are washed into lakes and streams and are quickly eaten by the fish. Biologists dissecting fish caught following a rain, report finding insect-filled stomachs. Ward attributes the generally poor fishing conditions following a rain to the fact that a fisherman's quarry is sated with insect viands.

Fishermen should keep in mind that in addition to certain dietary preferences, freshwater predators — large and small-mouth bass and walleye pike — are aggressive, have large mouths and large, well-developed stomachs. They can detect movement in water by a sensory system on the side of the body as well as by sight. They may lie in wait for their prey or actively pursue it. As a group, however, they are sight feeders and most readily strike artificial lures.

FRESHWATER FISHING champion Virgil Ward snares a bass.

Cards open camp

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Seven players of the 40-man St. Louis Cardinal roster worked out here Monday during the Red Bird's first spring-training drill.

Among those in camp were former MVP winner Joe Torre and regular pitchers Reggie Cleveland and Scipio Spinks

Spinks, a question mark for this year's five-man starting rotation because of a knee operation last summer, pitched for about 10 minutes during the opening drill and said the knee did not bother him.

A total of 19 players attended the first training session with 12 of those coming from the minors.

That's when Marvin Miller, outspoken executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, meets with player representatives of the 24 teams to brief them on the agreement achieved with the club owners.

Miller and the owners' representative, John Gaherin, wouldn't disclose any details of the agreement—although plenty of them leaked out anyway. And it still isn't official. Both the owners and players must ratify it. That, however, appears to be merely a formality.

For even as the announcement of the settlement was being made, players were already flooding into spring training camps to begin getting in shape for the season that will open—on time this year—barely a month away.

The agreement is not only preventing another divisive and costly strike, it is hardly ruffling the spring training schedules. As of now, only four teams—the Boston Red Sox, Detroit Tigers, New York Mets and Minnesota Twins—have called off any preseason games at all. The only other casualty of any consequence was the cancellation by the Pittsburgh Pirates of their three-game exhibition series this weekend in Mexico.

Among the reported details of the new pact are:

—a minimum salary of $15,000 for major leaguers. In 1967, for a comparison, the minimum was $7,000.

—a maximum cut of 20 per cent of a player's salary after he has a poor year and a maximum decrease of 30 per cent over two years. The old terms permitted a one-year slash of 25 per cent and a two-year cut of 44 per cent.

—a month's pay for a player released in spring training, two month's pay if he's cut between the April 6 start of the season and May 15, and a full-season's pay if he's released after May 15. Previously, the player got nothing but a handshake if he was cut during spring training, one month's pay if he was cut any time after the start of the regular season.

Tom Seaver won't have to worry about such details. The pitching ace of the New York Mets, a six-time All-Star who posted a 21-12 record last year, signed his 1973 contract Monday for a reported $140,000.

Other signings included catcher Mike Ryan and pitcher Jim Nash of Philadelphia, outfielder Reggie Smith of Boston, pitcher Mel Stottlemyre and second baseman Horace Clarke of the New York Yankees and infielder Steve Garvey of Los Angeles.

FRESHWATER FISHING champion Virgil Ward snares a bass.

Dietary habits vary

Fish are what they eat

MANKATO, Minn.—(NEA)—A fish, like an Army, travels on its stomach.

Despite an apparently enormous appetite, observes Virgil Ward, three-time world and national freshwater fishing champion, few fishermen ever find a fat fish because fish eat only what they need. Although fish are far from being gourmets, they do have definite food preferences, he insists. An understanding of these preferences, he adds, can help put a bigger catch in your creel.

Ward has determined that an adult largemouth bass, for example, will eat the equivalent of 4 to 5 per cent of its own weight in fish during an average day. A young northern pike will eat several times this amount, his study shows, and fish feeding on less nutritious food consume even more.

Predators — this includes most game fish—generally require several pounds of fish flesh to produce a one-pound weight gain. Plant feeders need 30 to 40 pounds of vegetation to produce a single pound gain.

The abundance of food also plays an important part in a fish's diet. For predators, the smaller fish and other living organisms on which they dine are scarce early in the spring season, then become abundant during the summer and scarce again late in the season. This, according to Ward, an adviser for Johnson Fishing Reels here, affects fishing success, especially in inland waters.

If reservoir fishing's your thing, Ward says, you're likely to catch more fish in an older reservoir. Here the balance between largemouth bass, for example, and the prey is such that the natural food intake of the bass is often at a low level, and he's more likely to take your offerings. In newer reservoirs, easily caught prey such as crayfish, frog tadpoles, young bullheads and green sunfish are plentiful and bass can maintain a high level of food intake.

Trout in small streams and sunfish in lakes and streams include a high percentage of insects in their diets. During rains, many insects are washed into lakes and streams and are quickly eaten by the fish. Biologists dissecting fish caught following a rain, report finding insect-filled stomachs. Ward attributes the generally poor fishing conditions following a rain to the fact that a fisherman's quarry is sated with insect viands.

Fishermen should keep in mind that in addition to certain dietary preferences, freshwater predators — large and small-mouth bass and walleye pike — are aggressive, have large mouths and large, well-developed stomachs. They can detect movement in water by a sensory system on the side of the body as well as by sight. They may lie in wait for their prey or actively pursue it. As a group, however, they are sight feeders and most readily strike artificial lures.

Cards open camp

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Seven players of the 40-man St. Louis Cardinal roster worked out here Monday during the Red Bird's first spring-training drill.

Among those in camp were former MVP winner Joe Torre and regular pitchers Reggie Cleveland and Scipio Spinks

Spinks, a question mark for this year's five-man starting rotation because of a knee operation last summer, pitched for about 10 minutes during the opening drill and said the knee did not bother him.

A total of 19 players attended the first training session with 12 of those coming from the minors.

Modern Dancer Goes Classical

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When Erik Bruhn, generally considered the world's best classical male ballet dancer, retired in early 1972, American Ballet Theater immediately looked around for an important male dancer to hire. The company hired Paolo Bortoluzzi, 33, an Italian who has been dancing for the last dozen years with the Bejart Ballet in Brussels, a company which uses the modern pop choreography of Maurice Bejart.

Bortoluzzi's first season with the company was last summer and included both "La Sylphide," which Bruhn had been doing only six months before, and "Le Spectre de la Rose," which was danced by the legendary Vaslav Nijinsky.

"I think in life you must take risks," Bortoluzzi says. "If you think of 'La Sylphide' and you think of Erik, you never do it. But I love danger. If not I would never dance 'La Sylphide' directly after Erik. He is my ideal dancer; I have followed him very much in my life.

"It is important to know where you are in your life. I want to know if I am good, if I am bad — not just dream about it."

Bortoluzzi wanted to join American Ballet Theater because it includes some of the classical ballets, like "Swan Lake" and "Giselle," in its repertory. "I am known in New York previously with a modern company only. I don't want to keep closed in one style and stay in that. Otherwise people think you can't do the other. And I find it is not a complete career."

The dancer has, in the past 12 years, done some classical dancing as a guest artist around Europe, but the Bejart company has kept him so busy that he hasn't done a great deal of it. He says he doesn't have a preference between dancing modern or classical ballet. "With a good classical technique you can control and command yourself every time. I don't really prefer something. I love dancing."

Bortoluzzi's father had a clothing store and nobody in the family was in any branch of theater. Nobody in the family wanted him to be a dancer, either. "I studied gymnastics in school and I studied music 10 years. Maybe movement and music together is ballet. I didn't think I would be a dancer in my life until I was 15 and I got a pass to a ballet performance.

PAOLO BORTOLUZZI

"In Italy for a boy to be a dancer is something not really serious. My family was a little bit right because to do a big career in dance is very difficult. You must be very gifted and still it is difficult. But I am very hard-headed and I kept going. Of course they are very happy now. They enjoy ballet very much."

Bortoluzzi married a dancer in the Bejart company, who is from Iran, and they had their first child last summer. They still make their home in Brussels.

Some viewers were startled to see Bortoluzzi use his hands a great deal while dancing "Le Spectre de la Rose" and there was some adverse criticism. Bortoluzzi says he hasn't changed his style because of it.

"The original of that ballet was many years ago and I don't know if people expected the ballet that we do. The man is a rose; he must be pink and look something like a flower. He has no sex. He is not a man — just a spirit, soft and dreamy.

"Anyway, since I'm Italian I use my hands to talk. I've found the hands very important; I don't agree with people who say forget completely the movement of hands. A dancer is not just legs."

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures
By SYD KRONISH

EDITORS: Note Jan. 26 date in third paragraph.

A popular song once declared that "Love Is Sweeping the Country."

Well, if that's true, then the U.S. Postal Service has got itself a big broom and is promulgating the love theme far and wide via a new stamp referred to as "The Special Stamp For Someone Special."

The red, blue and green stamp of 8 cents value will be issued Jan. 26 in — where else — the City of Brotherly Love, Philadelphia.

The Postal Service was quick to point out that, although there will be nationwide distribution in time for placement on Valentine cards, the intent was for all occasions where "love" is basic — such as birthdays, anniversaries, weddings, as well as those times when special sentiments are being sent.

Designer of the stamp is Robert Indiana, modern pop art painter who is well known for his other works around the theme of love. The stamp depicts the word "Love" in large letters covering the entire left side of the stamp. There is no illustration elsewhere on the adhesive, but then again, love needs no illustration.

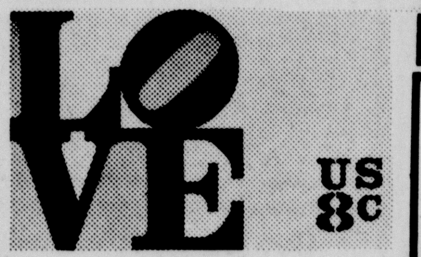
• • •

Other news of interest to collectors has been provided by the U.S. Postal Service.

The first of the 1973 American Revolution Bicentennial stamps will be issued Feb. 16 at Portland, Ore. The 8 center will feature a pamphleteer and is the first of a set of four on communications in Colonial times called "The Rise and the Spirit of Independence." The other four Bicentennial stamps will be issued as a block of four depicting the Boston Tea Party. They will be released July 4 in Boston.

The first of four commemoratives in the previously announced American Arts set will honor composer George Gershwin. This 8-cent stamp will be released Feb. 28 in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Other stamps upcoming are:



500th anniversary of the birth of Copernicus, and the honoring of A.P. Giannini, who founded the Bank of America.

• • •

Late in the spring, the U.S. will issue a set of stamps paying tribute to all postal employes. It will be called "The Postal People" set in the form of a strip of ten 8-cent stamps depicting a montage of the major tasks performed by postal workers.

Modern Dancer Goes Classical

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When Erik Bruhn, generally considered the world's best classical male ballet dancer, retired in early 1972, American Ballet Theater immediately looked around for an important male dancer to hire. The company hired Paolo Bortoluzzi, 33, an Italian who has been dancing for the last dozen years with the Bejart Ballet in Brussels, a company which uses the modern pop choreography of Maurice Bejart.

PAOLO BORTOLUZZI

Bortoluzzi's first season with the company was last summer and included both "La Sylphide," which Bruhn had been doing only six months before, and "Le Spectre de la Rose," which was danced by the legendary Vaslav Nijinsky.

"I think in life you must take risks," Bortoluzzi says. "If you think of 'La Sylphide' and you think of Erik, you never do it. But I love danger. If not I would never dance 'La Sylphide' directly after Erik. He is my ideal dancer; I have followed him very much in my life.

"It is important to know where you are in your life. I want to know if I am good, if I am bad — not just dream about it."

Bortoluzzi wanted to join American Ballet Theater because it includes some of the classical ballets, like "Swan Lake" and "Giselle," in its repertory. "I am known in New York previously with a modern company only. I don't want to keep closed in one style and stay in that. Otherwise people think you can't do the other. And I find it is not a complete career."

The dancer has, in the past 12 years, done some classical dancing as a guest artist around Europe, but the Bejart company has kept him so busy that he hasn't done a great deal of it. He says he doesn't have a preference between dancing modern or classical ballet. "With a good classical technique you can control and command yourself every time. I don't really prefer something. I love dancing."

Bortoluzzi's father had a clothing store and nobody in the family was in any branch of theater. Nobody in the family wanted him to be a dancer, either. "I studied gymnastics in school and I studied music 10 years. Maybe movement and music together is ballet. I didn't think I would be a dancer in my life until I was 15 and I got a pass to a ballet performance.

"In Italy for a boy to be a dancer is something not really serious. My family was a little bit right because to do a big career in dance is very difficult. You must be very gifted and still it is difficult. But I am very hard-headed and I kept going. Of course they are very happy now. They enjoy ballet very much."

Bortoluzzi married a dancer in the Bejart company, who is from Iran, and they had their first child last summer. They still make their home in Brussels.

Some viewers were startled to see Bortoluzzi use his hands a great deal while dancing "Le Spectre de la Rose" and there was some adverse criticism. Bortoluzzi says he hasn't changed his style because of it.

"The original of that ballet was many years ago and I don't know if people expected the ballet that we do. The man is a rose; he must be pink and look something like a flower. He has no sex. He is not a man — just a spirit, soft and dreamy.

"Anyway, since I'm Italian I use my hands to talk. I've found the hands very important; I don't agree with people who say forget completely the movement of hands. A dancer is not just legs."

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures
By SYD KRONISH

EDITORS: Note Jan. 26 date in third paragraph.

A popular song once declared that "Love Is Sweeping the Country."

Well, if that's true, then the U.S. Postal Service has got itself a big broom and is promulgating the love theme far and wide via a new stamp referred to as "The Special Stamp For Someone Special."

The red, blue and green stamp of 8 cents value will be issued Jan. 26 in — where else — the City of Brotherly Love, Philadelphia.

The Postal Service was quick to point out that, although there will be nationwide distribution in time for placement on Valentine cards, the intent was for all occasions where "love" is basic — such as birthdays, anniversaries, weddings, as well as those times when special sentiments are being sent.

Designer of the stamp is Robert Indiana, modern pop art painter who is well known for his other works around the theme of love. The stamp depicts the word "Love" in large letters covering the entire left side of the stamp. There is no illustration elsewhere on the adhesive, but then again, love needs no illustration.

• • •

Other news of interest to collectors has been provided by the U.S. Postal Service.

The first of the 1973 American Revolution Bicentennial stamps will be issued Feb. 16 at Portland, Ore. The 8 center will feature a pamphleteer and is the first of a set of four on communications in Colonial times called "The Rise and the Spirit of Independence." The other four Bicentennial stamps will be issued as a block of four depicting the Boston Tea Party. They will be released July 4 in Boston.

The first of four commemoratives in the previously announced American Arts set will honor composer George Gershwin. This 8-cent stamp will be released Feb. 28 in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Other stamps upcoming are:

500th anniversary of the birth of Copernicus, and the honoring of A.P. Giannini, who founded the Bank of America.

• • •

Late in the spring, the U.S. will issue a set of stamps paying tribute to all postal employes. It will be called "The Postal People" set in the form of a strip of ten 8-cent stamps depicting a montage of the major tasks performed by postal workers.

COLOSSAL MARKET!
It's true, the market is colossal. Where else could you find one to equal it? There are 100 million cars and trucks and a booming air-cooled engine, motorcycle, lawn mower and boat motor market and all need MOTOR/ALL for top performance.

NO COMPETITION!
Not only a huge market, but there's NO COMPETITION! That's right. MOTOR/ALL distributors and sales representatives do business without competition from any product even remotely like MOTOR/ALL. Who can beat that for a sales opportunity! Car owners, fleet operators, truckers, auto accessory outlets, service stations, garages, are ripe and ready prospects for MOTOR/ALL. With a market this big, here's your chance to make BIG MONEY!

More charges dropped in Pentagon papers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "It was a real victory," says Anthony Russo of a federal judge's ruling acquitting Russo and Daniel Ellsberg on one espionage count each in the 15-count Pentagon papers indictment.

U. S. Dist. Court Judge Matt Byrne, ruling late Monday in favor of defense contentions that the government had shown "insufficient evidence" to convict the defendants on those counts, ordered the defense case to begin today.

He allowed 13 counts of the indictment to stand, and held in abeyance a ruling on two counts which involve transmission of the Pentagon papers to unindicted co-conspirator Vu Van Thai.

Defense attorneys had pushed unsuccessfully in arguments last Friday for a judgment of acquittal on all counts.

However, after Monday's decision by the judge, Russo declared, "By the time we get through with the defense, there will be nothing left for the jury to consider."

The first order of scheduled business today was the government's renewed effort to introduce in evidence Thai's fingerprints - a matter which will influence the judge's ruling on the two counts.

Then Russo's attorney, Leonard Weinglass, delivers his opening statement to the jury. Ellsberg's attorney spoke before the government case opened.

Ellsberg, 41, and Russo, 36, both former researchers on government projects, are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft in connection with the release to news media of the top secret papers, a Pentagon study of U. S. involvement in Vietnam.

It is the first time Americans have been charged with espionage for giving secret material to newspapers in their own country — a unique interpretation of espionage laws which usually require proof of intent to harm the country.

Drug crackdown include treatment facilities

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Expanded treatment facilities must accompany a crackdown on the hard drug traffic in St. Louis and Kansas City, an office of the U.S. Office of Drug Abuse and Law Enforcement said in Jefferson City Monday.

John Bartels, assistant director of the federal office, met with Gov. Christopher S. Bond to discuss treatment clinics, and said later in a news conference there are few adequate treatment facilities outside St. Louis, Springfield and Kansas City.

He said there are 400 persons on waiting lists for treatment in the St. Louis area.

Bartels also said the U.S. attorneys in St. Louis and Kansas City are coordinating an expanded undercover effort at decreasing the availability of cocaine and heroin.

Since May 1 of 1972, he said, a 45-man force has made 500 arrests in Missouri, concentrating in the larger cities. The strike force will be expanded, but Bartles said the exact number is classified information.

Bartels termed Missouri's heroin and cocaine problem as being less than of epidemic proportions when compared with the rest of the nation. Last year there were over 500,000 arrests of the "hard drug" type in the nation and half were in the New York City area, he said.

The drugs coming into St. Louis and Kansas City come from Chicago and New York, he said. The quality of the drugs has decreased as enforcement improves, he said.

Bartels said the average age of the hard drug users had decreased from 25 to 19 in the past several years, and surprisingly, he said, servicemen from Vietnam who reportedly used heroin there are not showing up in great numbers on the arrest records.

5.5 per cent guideline is flexible

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has signaled more-flexible enforcement of its 5.5-per-cent wage guideline during this year's heavy calendar of labor negotiations.

The White House announced Monday that, while the 5.5-percent standard will remain on the books, it also will use as a wage-behavior guide a broadly worded statement issued by an advisory panel of top labor and business leaders.

Nowhere in the statement was there any mention of 5.5 per cent as a standard for pay increases this year.

The Labor-Management Advisory Committee, a 10-member panel that includes AFL-CIO President George Meany, called for the average rate of pay this year to be "consistent with the goal set by the President of getting the rate of inflation down to 2.5 per cent or less by the end of the year."

The panel added that no single standard or wage settlement "can be equally applicable at one time to all parties in an economy so large, decentralized and dynamic."

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and John Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, praised the panel's work but denied it meant an end to the 5.5-per-cent standard.

Shultz said in an interview that he regards the committee's carefully worded document as "a very strong statement." He said the government will use it as a basic guide in looking at wage contracts this year.

But neither Shultz nor Dunlop would give much detail on how the administration would use the committee's statement in conjunction with the 5.5 standard in enforcing wage controls this year.

Dunlop said there had always been flexibility in administering wage controls, noting that some boosts during the past year topped 7 per cent while others were below 5 per cent. He said the administration would be no more flexible in Phase 3 than it was in Phase 2.

In Miami Beach, Meany said he was not surprised at the administration's decision to retain the 5.5-per-cent standard.

But the veteran labor leader added, "We eventually hope to get away from the ceiling. If we're going to have a figure, it should be 7.5 per cent or 8 per cent."

The fact that Meany did not denounce the administration's decision to stay with the standard added credence to reports of greater enforcement flexibility.

The advisory committee said it recognizes the food-price spiral as a major problem to economic stabilization "and to responsible collective bargaining in the year ahead."

"The prices of agricultural products are susceptible to various government decisions," the committee said. "Strong and effective measures to increase agricultural supplies and to contain and cut back prices are essential to responsible wage decisions in 1973."

4 treated

Four accident patients were treated Monday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Willie Morgan, 71, Sikeston, cut tongue in truck accident; Jerry Ratledge, 27, Sikeston, cut scalp in car accident; Dixie Satterfield, 28, Sikeston, cut and scratched both knees and bruised scalp and chest in car accident; and Glenda Ledbetter, 22, Sikeston, cut forehead in fall.

Finding Alternate To Drugs

"IT'S SO GOOD, DON'T EVEN TRY IT ONCE." Heroin in Perspective. Edited by David E. Smith, M.D., and George R. Gay, M.D. Prentice-Hall. 208 Pages. $5.95. (Spectrum paperbound $2.45)

Heroin, says Dr. Gay, "is the 'I don't give a damn drug,' the social anesthetic."

And the search for the anesthesia, the escape it produces, has brought an explosive epidemic of heroin abuse. Once confined mainly to ghettos, where it was largely ignored, heroin recently seized middle-class white American youngsters, and more lately blue-collar kids, and untold thousands of Vietnam GIs.

Foreign aid vote

Senate plays its ace

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has voted to cut off foreign aid April 30 unless President Nixon releases $4.5 billion approved by Congress for domestic programs.

The committee attached that provision Monday to a bill authorizing $1.55 billion in military aid over the next four months.

The bill, which also prohibits spending of appropriated funds for rehabilitation of North Vietnam without congressional approval, will be ready for Senate floor debate later this week. The measure authorizes military-aid grants to 64 countries.

But the bill would cut off foreign-aid commitments after April 30 unless Nixon allows full spending of appropriated funds for the departments of Agriculture, Transportation, Housing and Urban Development, and Health, Education and Welfare.

The amendment was sponsored by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, chairman of Foreign Relations, on a 9-7 vote along party lines.

As a weapon in the fight against inflation, Nixon is refusing to spend appropriations earmarked for various domestic programs in an attempt to hold down government spending. Both houses of Congress are involved in a battle with the White House over this impoundment practice.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who advocates congressional authority to set spending priorities without item veto by the president, said he voted against the proviso tying foreign aid to domestic spending, on grounds it was an attempt by foreignaid opponents to kill the program.

In a related development, the Senate approved an extension of foreign-aid spending until April 30. The same resolution carries continuing spending authority for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare departments until the end of the current fiscal year June 30.

The spending bill was returned to the House, which had been willing to allow continued expenditures in both areas until June 30.

Present temporary spending authority expires at midnight Wednesday.

Road ordinance dropped

DEXTER — So that work can continue to move ahead a quickly as possible on the new Arvin industrial site here, the City Council Friday rescinded its ordinance prohibiting trucks on One Mile Road between Route 114 and Highway 60.

The action was taken at a special meeting of the City Council, and upon the recommendation of Mayor Willis Conner.

Previously, the council had passed an ordinance prohibiting trucks along that stretch of One Mile Road, but officials of the firm furnishing the gravel for the Arvin project pointed out that this would "seriously hamper" their operations and slow the Arvin project.

At the same time, officials of the city learned that it would be several weeks before work could be started to rebuild the street.

It was emphasized at the special meeting that the original blacktop on that section of the street was put down hurriedly several years ago at the time of the hospital dedication, and was "not properly put down." It was done hurriedly when it was learned that Vice President Hubert Humphrey would be in Dexter for the ceremonies, it was recalled.

Conner said that he had a telephone conversation with officials of the Arvin firm late last week and they urged that "all possible speed" be used to complete the project.

"It is very unlikely that we could start rebuilding the street before the gravel - hauling work is completed in any case," the Mayor told the councilmen.

By unanimous action, the council rescinded the ordinance.

Films made available

HOWARDVILLE— Twenty- two films relating to drugs and marijuana, plus others concerning tobacco and alcohol, are available to civic and church organizations from New Madrid County R- 1 enlarged school district, according to Dr. George S. Reuter Jr., superintendent of schools.

Dr. Reuter said three of the films are geared to children aged 6- 12, and 19 are aimed at ages 11 to 21 or adults.

In order to utilize the films by as many groups as possible, Ray LeSieur, director of the school film library, will provide the films, projector and screen and, if necessary, is available as projectionist when the films are not in use by the schools.

12 Dexter men attend police training class

DEXTER — A total of 12 Dexter civil defense members and city policemen are enrolled in the new series of police training classes at Sikeston under the supervision of the Bootheel Law Enforcement Assistance Council.

The class meets each Wednesday at 7 p.m. The object of the training is to increase the effectiveness of local police officers and also to meet the anticipated state requirement that all police officers have a minimum of 250 hours of training, officials said.

Those attending from Dexter include: Civil Defense -- Dale Pursell, Jack Ward, Charles Backfisch, Jim Ross, Robert Barker, Jerry Johnson, Kenneth Whittington and William Nelson. Police -- Lawrence B. Reaves, Robert L. Grubbs, David Townsend and Sanders Walpole.

Kirkpatrick says new records center needed

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri needs a new records center to "preserve and learn from our past so we may move into better tomorrows," Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick said Monday night.

Kirkpatrick urged delegates to the Missouri Conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Kansas City to ask legislators' support of his proposals for the center.

Quoting from Santayana, Kirkpatrick said, "Those people who will not learn from their history are doomed to repat it."

Kirkpatrick has proposed a new records center containing the state library and state museum, and has said a new building could save $111,000 a year in rent.

The museum now is on the first floor of the capitol and moving it would free office space for legislators, he said.

"Our present records center is inadequate in terms of size, suitability, fire and theft protection, and the specialized needs of an archives," Kirkpatrick said.

"We need to get more of our records on film," he said. "We need to make wider publication of our findings."

Kirkpatrick said that by destroying old records and by storing semi-active records in 11-cent cardboard boxes rather than in metal cabinets, his office has saved the state $2.7 million in the past seven years.

Marston man attends water treatment class

COLUMBIA — Casey H. Forbes of 128 Main St., Marston, attended a short course for water treatment plant operators last week at University of Missouri - Columbia.

The course focused attention on modern concepts of chemical processes for water treatment. An evaulation of methods to dispose of sludges formed by such chemical processes was also held.

Instructors were Dr. James Edzwald and Dr. John Novak, faculty members of the department of civil engineering at UMC.

The short course was sponsored by the Missouri Section of the American Water Works Association, the Missouri Water and Sewerage Conference, the University Extension Division and the Department of civil engineering of UMC's College of Engineering.

Funds approved for new sewer facilities

HOLCOMB— State funds have been approved by the Missouri Clean Water Commission for two Dunklin County cities for the construction of sewage treatment facilities, 10th District Rep. Bill D. Burlison announced today.

The City of Holcomb has been approved for state funds in the amount of $17,595, for the sewage project, and the City of Campbell has been approved for state funds in the amount of $13,200.

State participation in the grant project costs is 15 per cent of the total award, in relationship to 75 per cent from the Federal Environmental Protection Agency, with the remaining 10 per cent coming from local sources, Burlison explained.

Both Holcomb and Campbell's applications have been forwarded to the Environmental Protection Agency and state payments are now contingent upon approval at the federal level. At the present time federal funds are under impoundment by the president.

5.5 per cent guideline is flexible

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has signaled more-flexible enforcement of its 5.5-per-cent wage guideline during this year's heavy calendar of labor negotiations.

The White House announced Monday that, while the 5.5-percent standard will remain on the books, it also will use as a wage-behavior guide a broadly worded statement issued by an advisory panel of top labor and business leaders.

Nowhere in the statement was there any mention of 5.5 per cent as a standard for pay increases this year.

The Labor-Management Advisory Committee, a 10-member panel that includes AFL-CIO President George Meany, called for the average rate of pay this year to be "consistent with the goal set by the President of getting the rate of inflation down to 2.5 per cent or less by the end of the year."

The panel added that no single standard or wage settlement "can be equally applicable at one time to all parties in an economy so large, decentralized and dynamic."

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and John Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, praised the panel's work but denied it meant an end to the 5.5-per-cent standard.

Shultz said in an interview that he regards the committee's carefully worded document as "a very strong statement." He said the government will use it as a basic guide in looking at wage contracts this year.

But neither Shultz nor Dunlop would give much detail on how the administration would use the committee's statement in conjunction with the 5.5 standard in enforcing wage controls this year.

Dunlop said there had always been flexibility in administering wage controls, noting that some boosts during the past year topped 7 per cent while others were below 5 per cent. He said the administration would be no more flexible in Phase 3 than it was in Phase 2.

In Miami Beach, Meany said he was not surprised at the administration's decision to retain the 5.5-per-cent standard.

But the veteran labor leader added, "We eventually hope to get away from the ceiling. If we're going to have a figure, it should be 7.5 per cent or 8 per cent."

The fact that Meany did not denounce the administration's decision to stay with the standard added credence to reports of greater enforcement flexibility.

The advisory committee said it recognizes the food-price spiral as a major problem to economic stabilization "and to responsible collective bargaining in the year ahead."

"The prices of agricultural products are susceptible to various government decisions," the committee said. "Strong and effective measures to increase agricultural supplies and to contain and cut back prices are essential to responsible wage decisions in 1973."

Heroin, says Dr. Gay, "is the 'I don't give a damn drug,' the social anesthetic."

And the search for the anesthesia, the escape it produces, has brought an explosive epidemic of heroin abuse. Once confined mainly to ghettos, where it was largely ignored, heroin recently seized middle-class white American youngsters, and more lately blue-collar kids, and untold thousands of Vietnam GIs.

Kirkpatrick says new records center needed

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri needs a new records center to "preserve and learn from our past so we may move into better tomorrows," Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick said Monday night.

Kirkpatrick urged delegates to the Missouri Conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Kansas City to ask legislators' support of his proposals for the center.

Quoting from Santayana, Kirkpatrick said, "Those people who will not learn from their history are doomed to repat it."

Kirkpatrick has proposed a new records center containing the state library and state museum, and has said a new building could save $111,000 a year in rent.

The museum now is on the first floor of the capitol and moving it would free office space for legislators, he said.

"Our present records center is inadequate in terms of size, suitability, fire and theft protection, and the specialized needs of an archives," Kirkpatrick said.

"We need to get more of our records on film," he said. "We need to make wider publication of our findings."

Kirkpatrick said that by destroying old records and by storing semi-active records in 11-cent cardboard boxes rather than in metal cabinets, his office has saved the state $2.7 million in the past seven years.

Foreign aid vote

Senate plays its ace

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has voted to cut off foreign aid April 30 unless President Nixon releases $4.5 billion approved by Congress for domestic programs.

The committee attached that provision Monday to a bill authorizing $1.55 billion in military aid over the next four months.

The bill, which also prohibits spending of appropriated funds for rehabilitation of North Vietnam without congressional approval, will be ready for Senate floor debate later this week. The measure authorizes military-aid grants to 64 countries.

But the bill would cut off foreign-aid commitments after April 30 unless Nixon allows full spending of appropriated funds for the departments of Agriculture, Transportation, Housing and Urban Development, and Health, Education and Welfare.

The amendment was sponsored by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, chairman of Foreign Relations, on a 9-7 vote along party lines.

As a weapon in the fight against inflation, Nixon is refusing to spend appropriations earmarked for various domestic programs in an attempt to hold down government spending. Both houses of Congress are involved in a battle with the White House over this impoundment practice.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who advocates congressional authority to set spending priorities without item veto by the president, said he voted against the proviso tying foreign aid to domestic spending, on grounds it was an attempt by foreignaid opponents to kill the program.

In a related development, the Senate approved an extension of foreign-aid spending until April 30. The same resolution carries continuing spending authority for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare departments until the end of the current fiscal year June 30.

The spending bill was returned to the House, which had been willing to allow continued expenditures in both areas until June 30.

Present temporary spending authority expires at midnight Wednesday.

Funds approved for new sewer facilities

HOLCOMB— State funds have been approved by the Missouri Clean Water Commission for two Dunklin County cities for the construction of sewage treatment facilities, 10th District Rep. Bill D. Burlison announced today.

The City of Holcomb has been approved for state funds in the amount of $17,595, for the sewage project, and the City of Campbell has been approved for state funds in the amount of $13,200.

State participation in the grant project costs is 15 per cent of the total award, in relationship to 75 per cent from the Federal Environmental Protection Agency, with the remaining 10 per cent coming from local sources, Burlison explained.

Both Holcomb and Campbell's applications have been forwarded to the Environmental Protection Agency and state payments are now contingent upon approval at the federal level. At the present time federal funds are under impoundment by the president.

Road ordinance dropped

DEXTER — So that work can continue to move ahead a quickly as possible on the new Arvin industrial site here, the City Council Friday rescinded its ordinance prohibiting trucks on One Mile Road between Route 114 and Highway 60.

The action was taken at a special meeting of the City Council, and upon the recommendation of Mayor Willis Conner.

Previously, the council had passed an ordinance prohibiting trucks along that stretch of One Mile Road, but officials of the firm furnishing the gravel for the Arvin project pointed out that this would "seriously hamper" their operations and slow the Arvin project.

At the same time, officials of the city learned that it would be several weeks before work could be started to rebuild the street.

It was emphasized at the special meeting that the original blacktop on that section of the street was put down hurriedly several years ago at the time of the hospital dedication, and was "not properly put down." It was done hurriedly when it was learned that Vice President Hubert Humphrey would be in Dexter for the ceremonies, it was recalled.

Conner said that he had a telephone conversation with officials of the Arvin firm late last week and they urged that "all possible speed" be used to complete the project.

"It is very unlikely that we could start rebuilding the street before the gravel - hauling work is completed in any case," the Mayor told the councilmen.

By unanimous action, the council rescinded the ordinance.
